

President Takes Action On Pay Board Vacancies

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has decided how to fill a gap caused by the resignation of three AFL-CIO leaders from the Pay Board and will announce his decision late this afternoon, the White House said.

Deputy press secretary Gerald R. Warren said Nixon will confer at 3 p.m. EST with members of the Cost of Living Council and disclose immediately thereafter his plans for future conduct of the board and its methods of procedure.

Warren said Nixon made his decision

Wednesday night—a few hours after AFL-CIO President George Meany led himself and two colleagues off the 15-member panel.

The President met for about two hours Wednesday night with Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, Director George P. Shultz of the Office of Management and Budget, Chairman Herbert Stein of the Council of Economic Advisers and Donald Rumsfeld, staff chief of the Cost of Living Council.

Warren, reporting this, said Nixon continued discussions on the subject today.

The press spokesman gave no clue as to the nature of the President's decision.

Asked if the chief executive had discussed the subject with George H. Boldt, chairman of the Pay Board, Warren said, "the President has not had an opportunity to talk to Chairman Boldt on this subject."

"It is the President's view that a few labor leaders representing a small percentage of the 80 million wage-earners in this country will not be allowed to sabotage the fight against inflation and the fight against higher prices," said White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

"In the guise of an anti-inflation policy, the American people are being gouged at the supermarket and squeezed in the paycheck," said AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Meany, President I. W. Abel of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers and President Floyd Smith of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists started the fight by quitting the Pay Board in a body with the accusation that Nixon's controls are loaded in favor of big business and against workers and unions.

Meany said politics played no part in the decision by the executive council of the 13.6-million-member labor federation to pull its representatives off the Pay Board.

But the AFL-CIO's political strategists have been gearing up for months for an expected all-out effort to defeat Nixon in his re-election bid next November.

The AFL-CIO resignations left only two labor representatives on the 15-member board, Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons who said he will continue serving on the board and United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock who withheld announcing any decision. Woodcock is believed reluctant to quit the board on the theory that he can better protect his union's contracts by remaining.

Backed by a unanimous vote of the 28 members of his executive council who attended Wednesday's meeting, Meany attended Nixon's controls. Seven council members were absent.

He noted that a wide range of consumer prices, including raw fruits and vegetables, interest rates, life-insurance premiums, used cars and homes, are exempt from price controls.

"The administration's so-called new economic policy is heavily loaded against the worker and consumer in favor of the profits of big business and the banks and is dominated by the view that economic progress begins and ends in the stock market and the corporation financial report.

"Millions of American workers remain unemployed, their wages frozen at zero, with no real prospect of relief," Meany said.

N. Korea Renews Withdrawal Idea

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North Korea renewed its demand today that all U.S. troops be withdrawn from South Korea in order to maintain peace in the Korean peninsula.

It also accused the United States of obstructing a peaceful unification of Korea by sabotaging political conferences to discuss the Korean unification question among Koreans as provided by the 1953 Korean armistice agreement.

At the 329th meeting of the joint Military Armistice Commission at this neutralized conference site, Maj. Gen. Han Yong-ok assailed the United States despite a statement by Secretary of State William P. Rogers earlier this month that there had been some low-level signals indicating a desire on the part of the North Koreans to establish relations with Washington.

Brings Bad News

Because of soaring food prices, the cost of living rose sharply in February — the sharpest one-month rise since last summer, the Labor Department said today. Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers told a news conference in Washington that he isn't happy with the climb but said the administration had no present intentions of extending price controls to cover agricultural goods. (UPI)

Note Big Increase In Cost of Living

WASHINGTON (AP) — The biggest jump in grocery prices in 14 years last month triggered the sharpest rise in overall living costs since before President Nixon imposed economic controls, the government reported today.

The Consumer Price Index, measuring typical family living costs, rose five-tenths of one per cent in February, the largest increase in nine months, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

Grocery prices, which include a number of items that are not subject to federal price controls, soared 1.9 per cent for the greatest one-month increase since March of 1958, the report said.

The report followed the resignation of three AFL-CIO members of Nixon's Pay Board, who charged the government was rigidly holding down wages while letting prices continue to climb.

The bureau also reported that average weekly earnings of some 45 million rank-and-file workers rose 35 cents a week to $130.27, but that purchasing power declined 24 cents because of the rise in consumer prices.

The February boost pushed the price index up to 123.8 per cent of its 1967 average. This means it cost $12.38 last month for every $10 worth of typical family purchases five years ago.

The February increase was the greatest since a six-tenths of one per cent rise last June, two months before Nixon imposed a 90-day wage-price freeze which was then followed by Phase 2 controls.

The bureau said that, so far in the four months of Phase 2, living costs have risen at an annual rate of 4.9 per cent, greater than the 4.1 per cent rate in the six months before Nixon's August economic freeze.

Prices had been held to an annual rate of 1.7 per cent during the rigid three-month freeze that preceded the looser Phase 2 controls.

Prices hikes in February included two-tenths of one per cent for housing, four-tenths each for clothing and medical care and one-tenth of one per cent for recreation.

Transportation costs declined six-tenths of one per cent, the report said.

A steep rise in meat prices, it said, accounted for about 70 per cent of the big rise in food prices.

Fresh fruits and vegetables also rose considerably. Dairy products rose instead of declining as usual in February, and cereal and bakery products went up for the first time in four months, the report said.

Raw agricultural products, such as fruits and vegetables and eggs, are exempt from federal price controls.

Other increases included local transit fares, property taxes and natural gas rates, although the increases were smaller.

$148 Million Here

ABM Defense Request Reported

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WASHINGTON — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., chairman of the Senate's Armed Services Subcommittee on Military Construction, announced Thursday that the Department of Defense had requested a $168,999,000 authorization for military construction in Missouri, including Safeguard missile installations in Pettis County.

The senator's announcement reported that the total cost for "the acquisition of land, access roads and on-site construction of the ABM installation in Missouri is now estimated at $211 million, a 50 per cent increase from the $155 million estimate in 1970."

Symington said the Department of Defense had asked $148 million for the Safeguard antiballistic missile installation in the Sedalia area.

Authorization for the Safeguard site, including the central missile site radar facility near Hughesville, previously was limited to planning and preparation and did not include construction, Symington reported.

He added that if the authorization is approved by Congress, it is expected that the Department of Defense will obligate $137 million of the $148 million request to the Sedalia area ABM system during the third quarter, next January through March, of fiscal year 1973.

It was learned last week that the Army had asked Congress for authority to spend $587.2 million to begin ABM deployment at Warren AFB, Wyo., and in Pettis County. Thursday's announcement offered the first break-down of expenditures for the Sedalia area site.

Last September the federal government's anti-inflation drive scored a direct hit on the Pettis County missile installation, eliminating any possibility for a construction start during 1972.

Then, in October, the Senate approved a committee recommendation limiting Safeguard work in this area to advance preparations only, erasing House-approved funds for fully ABM deployment here.

The action allowed deployment at only two sites, Montana and North Dakota. The bill was returned to the House-Senate conference committee, which agreed to limit the Safeguard missile defense system pending the outcome of U.S. and Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

Once approved, the Sedalia area facilities will include a missile site radar installation with Spartan and Sprint missile launching cells northwest of Sedalia near Hughesville, and remote launch sites with Sprint missiles in four other locations.

These would be east of Concordia in Lafayette County, east of Sedalia in Cooper County, northeast of Sedalia and west of Sedalia in Pettis County.

For This Year

Missouri Voting Changes Possible

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Omer Avery, D-Troy, said today there is a chance Missouri's voter residency requirements could be changed to conform with Tuesday's U.S. Supreme Court's decision in time to apply to this year's general election.

The Supreme Court threw out a Tennessee law requiring a one year residence to vote in state and congressional elections. Missouri's law is similar.

Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick conferred with Avery about changing Missouri's rules and Avery said he thought it could be done by attaching an emergency clause to a pending constitutional amendment that would make it effective immediately. Then it could be voted on in the primary election.

As it passed the Senate, the amendment would change the 60-day requirement for voting in presidential and vice presidential elections to 30 days.

For state and congressional elections, Avery suggested Missouri should require 90 days residence in the state and 45 days residence in the city or county. He said that would give a new resident time to become acquainted with local candidates and issues.

Supreme Court Judge Thurgood Marshall had suggested a 30 day limit.

Kirkpatrick said he would not object to reducing the requirement to 60 days and thought that would not cause any problems for local election officials.

Rep. Buddy Kay, D-St. Louis, chairman of the Election Law Study Commission, agreed with Kirkpatrick. He said the 60-day period would be an absolute minimum for a new resident to familiarize himself with issues and candidates.

Tangle Continues

Possible Billboard Compromise

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A Senate billboard bill headed today for possible compromise settlement in a House-Senate conference committee.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, president pro tem, ruled Sen. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, had no right to strike his bill from the calendar at this time.

When the Senate voted Wednesday to ask the House for a conference, Patterson said, that meant the Senate, technically, no longer had possession of the bill. Therefore, Young's motion to kill it in disgust was out of order.

It was one more development in what has become the 1972 legislature's most tangled maze.

The House agreed to a conference committee effort to iron out differences between the House and Senate.

Named as House conferees were Reps Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis; Walter L. Meyer, D-Bellefontaine Neighbors; John Scott, D-St. Louis; Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, and Carrol L. McCubbin, R-Eldon.

Senate conferees are Sen. Young; William B. Waters, D-Liberty; Jasper M. Brancato, D-Kansas City; Richard M.

Webster, R-Carthage, and Don Owens, R-Gerald.

Young said the committee would meet for the first time Monday at 8 p.m.

Rep. Walter Meyer, D-Bellefontaine Neighbors, committee chairman, said "All we tried to do was to get a backup proposal" as a vehicle to get to a House-Senate conference.

Time is running out. Legislators have one week to satisfy the U.S. Department of Transportation and put Missouri into federal conformity or face a temporary freeze on this year's federal funds.

Request Action On Use of Funds

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Three Democratic members of the Missouri House today asked the attorney general to start court proceedings to bar Rep. Richard Marshall, R-Webster Groves, from using Republican State Committee funds in his campaign against Democrats.

At almost the same moment Marshall filed a resolution challenging the right of Rep. William F. "Buck" Casey, D-Potosi, to serve in the House, charging he actually lives in Jefferson City.

Marshall also filed a remonstrance, charging the majority Democrats with using a subterfuge to block his earlier challenge of the right of Speaker Pro Tem Patrick H. Wickey, D-St. Ann, to occupy his House seat. He said Hickey built a new home outside his 31st District last summer.

The Democratic move today also asked that a committee of five House members investigate allegations that Marshall used GOP state Committee funds and refer its findings to the appropriate prosecuting attorney if it appears Marshall violated his oath of office.

The oath of office has each legislator pledge "that I will not knowingly receive, directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing for the performance or nonperformance of any act or duty pertaining to my office, other than the compensation allowed by law."

The Democrats charge Marshall violated his oath when as a legislator he demanded from Speaker James E. Godfrey, D-St. Louis, a batch of signed subpoenas. They were to be used in his challenge of the qualifications of various Democratic representatives.

The three Democrats who signed the resolution are Rep. Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, chairman of the Judiciary Committee; Rep. Robert Devoy, D-Brookfield, chairman of the Constitutional Amendments Committee; and Rep. Harold L. Holliday, D-Kansas City, chairman of the Civil and Criminal Jurisprudence Committee.

Drug Raid Hearings Postponed

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARRENSBURG — For the second time, the preliminary hearings of five men charged with the illegal sale of drugs has been postponed. Johnson County Sheriff Harlan Temple said no new date for a preliminary hearing in Johnson County Magistrate Court here has been set.

The charges stem from a massive drug raid on six residences here two weeks ago by state and local law enforcement authorities.

Arrested and charged were: Danny Frost, two counts of selling cocaine; Kimble Anderson, selling marijuana; Thomas Cabanas, selling hashish; Mark Stevens, selling MDA (amphetamines); and J. B. Cohen, two counts of selling marijuana and LSD.

After charges were filed, all five men were released from custody under $5,000 each.

Three other persons were arrested for possession of marijuana during the course of the raids. Charged were: Shelly Snyder, William Foster and James Carson. They were released under $500 bond each. No trial date has been set on the possession charges, but the cases were transferred directly to the Johnson County Circuit Court.

Sheriff Temple said he was uncertain about when the cases will be heard, but said they could come up during the June term of the Circuit Court.

Question Agent's Tactics

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The tactics of an agent for the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs were questioned Wednesday as testimony continued in the trial of Dr. Bruce E. Hodges, former Johnson County Health Director. He is charged in U.S. District Court here with selling drugs.

Criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey of Boston questioned at length agent Jerome H. Gershman's dealings with Hodges. The agent is the government's prime witness.

Gershman testified that he had purchased amphetamine drugs from Hodges on his first visit and obtained prescriptions for drugs on his second and third visits in February 1971.

Hodges was indicted in June of 1971 and charged with six counts of illegal drug sales.

Gershman testified he obtained Hodges' name after it was allegedly found on a prescription blank in the home of a "known criminal." Gershman denied using the criminal's name to exert influence on the doctor. He said he used the name simply to gain admission to see Hodges after a receptionist said he was accepting no more patients.

The defense is scheduled to begin calling witnesses today.

East Side Employees Are Fired

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Twenty employees were fired and a new bank was chosen Wednesday by trustees of the troubled East Side Levee and Sanitary District.

Board Chairman William Ebersoldt said the actions were taken "to get our house in order" and "to save ourselves financial embarrassment."

The dismissed employees included Adwir L. Kraemer, chief engineer and chief executive officer, and General Supt. Charles M. H. McGinnis.

Chief Charles D. Little was put out of a job when his police force was abolished by vote of Ebersoldt and Trustee James D. Pirtle.

Trustee Lawrence T. Tolar refused to vote. "You guys go ahead and hold your damned meeting," he said as he walked out of the board room.

Ebersoldt said the changes made could save taxpayers up to $150,000 a year.

The Bank of Cahokia was replaced as a district depository by First National Bank of East St. Louis.

Pirtle objected to doing business with the Cahokia bank because district attorney John R. Sprague Sr. of Belleville is a major stockholder.

Sprague had been slated for dismissal but he was retained temporarily at Pirtle's request.

Pirtle said "Sprague's employment will be re-evaluated, along with that of other district lawyers."

Pirtle, a Republican, recently was appointed by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie to replace Morris Campbell, a Democrat convicted of theft of district funds.

The district was formed to provide flood protection for portions of St. Clair and Madison counties.

In addition to the Campbell case, it has been involved in a series of problems.

Ebersoldt, Campbell, Tolar and the late George Duff were convicted in 1970 on charges of criminal misconduct in office.

They were found guilty of awarding contracts illegally and overpayment for legal services. But their convictions later were reversed.

Interior Official Tells Route Merits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Undersecretary William T. Pecora says an Alaska oil pipeline would be a greater spill risk than one through Canada, but the trans-Canada route would cause more damage because three times the distance, in Canada, is in permafrost.

The department's environmental-impact statement says the permafrost distance of a Canadian route is 1.5 to 2 times that of the proposed Alaska route. And it rates the land disruption about equal in severity either way.

Pecora also said, in a prepared statement issued by the department, that a Canadian pipeline route would require extensions east and west to the U.S. Midwest and West Coast, and "inevitably, much actual disruption of the environment would result."

But he conceded in an interview that the extensions actually would have a small impact since they could share rights-of-way already carrying oil pipelines from Canada.

Pecora compared the proposed trans-Alaska oil pipeline with alternate routes through Canada in a 90-second recorded announcement offering "further insight into environmental effects of moving oil from the North Slope of Alaska to the lower 48 states."

His statement made no mention of the unavoidable impacts on Alaska's Prince William Sound or other segments of the tanker route that would be needed to haul oil from the proposed pipeline's southern end at Valdez to ports on the U.S. West Coast.

Interior's nine-volume environmental impact statement, issued Monday, says oil transfers and tanker ballast-cleaning at Port Valdez would cause chronic spillage resulting in "a gradual build-up and accumulation of pollutant hydrocarbons" in the water.

The spilled oil "could...possibly affect areas far distant from the original discharge site," it says.

Officer Wounded By Police

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — An off-duty police officer was wounded by officers attached to the police vice squad in a fight that broke out at a Kansas City tavern late Wednesday night.

The wounded officer identified as Glen O. Loyd was listed in satisfactory condition at Menorah Medical Center. A hospital spokesman said Loyd suffered four gunshot wounds, three of them in the shoulder.

The police reported Loyd and another man, tentatively identified as a park ranger were sitting in the tavern when the ranger got in an argument with four other men.

Witnesses told police John Botkins, the bartender, came to the table and told the ranger to stop arguing when Loyd drew his revolver and told Botkins to leave the park ranger alone.

Witnesses said that at this point two men stood up on the other side of the room and drew their revolvers. The two men later were identified as police officers Andrew Braden and Michael Chase. Neither Loyd nor the officers recognized each other.

Police said witnesses related that Loyd turned and pointed his revolver at the two vice squad members.

Two witnesses said Loyd yelled that he was a police officer just before or as he was hit. After Loyd fell, the officers in plain clothes rushed across the room to place handcuffs on him.

Sheik Provides Dacca's Best Show

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer

DACCA (AP) — The best show in Dacca starts at sundown at the prime minister's house when the people come to meet Sheikh Mujibur Rahman.

"This is impossible," roared Mujib one hectic evening. "How do they expect me to get my work done?" He was lecturing adoring adherents who had jammed the corridor in front of his office in the two-story villa. The supporters wandered happily off, having seen their leader but another mooning batch soon replaced them.

Outside the walls of the house, a half dozen antique buses rolled in from the countryside carrying several hundred members of a workers organization, waving banners and placards. They wanted jobs.

Inside the house, in a room cheerfully brightened by yellow print upholstery, Mujib returned to his work and did not look up for the appearance of a foreign journalist he had summoned for what the newsman thought was to be an interview.

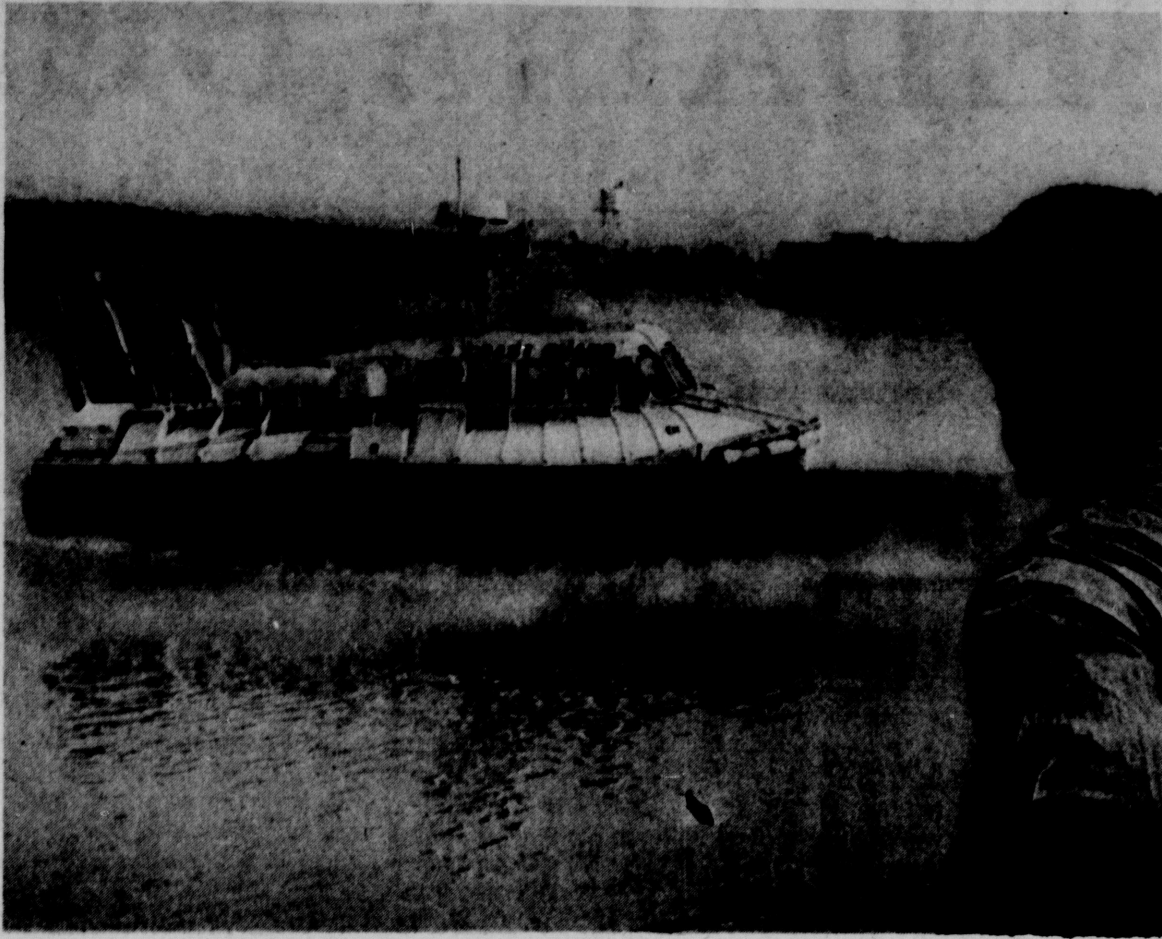

Suddenly, the door to the room was flung open, the drapes across the door flapped and in rushed six weeping and wailing men who had fought for the liberation of Bangladesh.

One man held up an arm in a cast and swathed with gauze. He swept across the room and hurled himself at the sheik's feet. A second revealed an artificial leg. A third pulled at his shirt and showed his scars. The others climbed over a journal-

McGovern Changes Political Planning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two years ago, Denver lawyer, Gary Hart and Sen. George McGovern laid out the basic strategy for the senator's presidential bid: Build from the grass roots up, and aim for the New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries.

The prospects and plans of his presidential rivals have changed considerably since then. McGovern's battle plan remains exactly the same.

And the second big test is coming 12 days from now in the April 4 Wisconsin primary.

The South Dakota Democrat's organization passed the first test, in New Hampshire with a 37.1-per-cent showing that exceeded the fondest hopes of his backers, and the five victorious McGovern delegates were five more than the organization had expected.

Many backers of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie considered the McGovern organization superior to their own. In Wisconsin, too, McGovern is said to have the best organization.

Hart, a 35-year-old Yale Law School graduate who has spent two years working to elect McGovern president, appreciates the plaudits for his labors but says he hasn't done anything special.

In the spring of 1970, Hart said, McGovern's strategy began to develop with these basic tenets:

—The nomination would be decided in the primaries.

—Other candidates would get the high-level endorsement from party leaders and elected officials.

—Financing would be limited, precluding the establishment of a large, highly paid campaign bureaucracy in Washington.

—The way to make up for this was with a strong, grass-roots organization.

Thus, while other candidates sent outsiders into various states and regions to set up campaigns, McGovern people picked local managers and built around them—down to the precinct level. Except for New Hampshire and Wisconsin, the state units had to be financially self-supporting.

While strong primary showings are important for every candidate, McGovern needed one early in the political season to overcome a low standing in public-opinion polls.

In New Hampshire, where he and Muskie were the only major contenders, McGovern received several times his 5-per-cent poll rating.

Fast Action On Busing Unlikely

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A closer look at President Nixon's antibusing proposals by House and Senate members has dimmed chances for prompt congressional action.

Opponents and supporters of busing are finding fault with the President's program. The prospect now is for full-scale hearings and long floor fights on the legislation.

The administration had hoped that at least the first part of the program—a moratorium on new busing until July 1, 1973—would be agreed to by House and Senate conferees who are trying to work out a compromise on a huge education bill.

But strong opposition from civil-rights groups and a lack of enthusiasm for the proposal by several members of Congress are slowing the administration's push.

AFL-CIO President George Meany issued a statement Tuesday calling Nixon's moratorium proposal "a cynical attempt to reward those who said 'never,' and to undermine the moral leadership of those citizens who endeavored to comply with the Constitution and the Supreme Court's 1954 decision."

Meany noted that Nixon in 1970 vetoed two bills increasing federal school aid.

"Now the President is back on national television trying to convince the American people that he has changed his opinion on improving the educational opportunities of disadvantaged children," Meany said. "This is political chicanery."

Clarence Mitchell, Washington representative of the NAACP, vowed an all-out fight against the Nixon program in a telegram Tuesday to Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., chairman of the Senate conferees.

Mitchell withdrew the NAACP's support for the administration's $1.5-billion desegregation bill, which is part of the Nixon proposal and is included in the legislative package before the conference committee.

"The President's speech and proposals have done so much damage it would be far better to have no legislation in this field at this time," said Mitchell.

Southerners who have been leading the fight against busing for years see nothing to help them in Nixon's plan to halt only new busing.

Rep. Joe D. Waggoner, D-La., one of the most influential Southern congressmen, said he would not support the moratorium unless it was amended to cut off current busing, too.

In even more trouble is the second part of Nixon's program, a bill designed to improve the quality of education by earmarking $2.5 billion in federal aid to schools with high concentrations of poor and minority pupils.

Nixon is not proposing to spend any new money but to redistribute funds already budgeted for the desegregation bill and the Elementary and Secondary School Act, a popular program aimed at upgrading the education of disadvantaged children.

Congressional supporters of ESSA, backed by educators, are unwilling to accept Nixon's unilateral rewriting of the measure to accomplish the goals in his equal-education bill.

As an indication that the administration realizes it has little chance of getting its proposals adopted in the current House-Senate conference, separate moratorium and equal-education bills were introduced in the House Monday by key Republicans. Extensive hearings on the proposals have already been planned.

Water on Mars?

Hupa Indian Talk Rare Occurrence

HOOPA, Calif. (AP) — Societish, the venerable spiritual leader of the Hupa Indians, stood before his people at the conclusion of the sacred White Deerskin Dance.

Speaking with sadness in his voice, he told them in Hupa: "I wish you understood what I'm talking about, but you don't."

Societish was reflecting the fact that on this largest of California's Indian reservations, 300 miles north of San Francisco, there may not be more than 50

Hupas out of nearly 500 who can speak their own language. A few more who can understand it but not speak it. Tribal membership on and off the reservation is about 1,300.

To change this language situation and to save the language from extinction, the State of California has issued teaching credentials to two Hupas, neither of whom has had a day of college education.

They are Oscar E. Jarnahan, 56, and Eleanor Abbott, 43.

Wilson Riles, State superintendent of public instruction, said that as far as he knows "this is the first time that any Indian in the nation has been credentialed on eminence." Under the California Teacher Accreditation Code, "eminent persons" may receive teaching credentials which otherwise require five years of college.

"They have talents that are rare, and I feel it's quite appropriate... they have something to offer no one else has," said Riles.

"Our ceremonial dances are done in Hupa. If we lose the language, then there won't be anyone left to pray."

Societish, the white-haired spiritual leader, has sanctioned the language revival. "It would be a deep tragedy if our language and all the beauty of our history goes out of existence with no trace left in the memories of our children and friends," he says.

Schedule Announced By Schools

Pre-enrollment for kindergarten and first-grade students for the 1972 school year will be held between April 10 and 28 at Sedalia elementary schools.

Parents are asked to enroll children at the school they will be attending. Pre-enrollment at any school is permitted, however.

The pre-enrollment sessions are designed for those children who will be five years old for kindergarten or six years old for the first grade by Sept. 30.

In preparation for pre-enrollment, parents should bring with them the child's birth certificate and an immunization or shot record. Vision and hearing tests will be administered by school nurses and a speech therapist will be on hand to test children for speech difficulties.

Each pre-enrollment clinic will be open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the indicated school gymnasium.

Pre-enrollment is set for the following schools: Whittier, April 10 and 11; Washington, April 12, 13 and 14; Striped College, April 17; Jefferson, April 18; Hubbard, April 19; Mark Twain, April 20 and 21; Horace Mann, April 24 and 25; Heber Hunt, April 26, 27 and 28.

Board Defers Action On Teaching Curbs

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — Concordia Seminary Board of Control members deferred Tuesday until their April 17 meeting action on a directive designed to curb the teachings of an Old Testament professor.

The Rev. Dr. Jacob A. O. Preus, president of the Lutheran Church's Missouri Synod, on two occasions asked the board and the president of the seminary to restrict Dr. Arlis Ehlen from teaching certain courses involving biblical interpretations.

Preus said his guidelines in connection with Ehlen's teachings were designed to assist "in identifying areas which need further attention in terms of the synod's doctrinal position."

Anniversaries Are Becoming Common

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Golden wedding anniversaries are becoming common, at least among Charles Loida and his brothers Joe and Edward.

Charles and his wife Leona celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently. Joe and his wife marked the same occasion in 1964 and Edward and his wife achieved the milestone in 1968.

"I don't think any of us feared we'd be divorced," said Charles.

DEATH NOTICES

Mrs. Marie E. Stonner

Mrs. Marie E. Stonner, 59, 1603 West Broadway, died at 8:05 p.m. Wednesday at her home.

Mrs. Stonner was born in Lincoln, July 31, 1912, daughter of John Bertus and Clara V. Klein Young. She was married to Dr. Robert M. Stonner, April 30, 1935.

Mrs. Stonner had been a resident of Sedalia since 1953, moving here from Linn. She was a member of the Wesley United Methodist Church, president of the WSCS and served on the official board of the Wesley Church for a number of years.

She was also president of the Newcomers Club, a member of Sorosis, and the Knife and Fork Club. She attended Central Missouri State College and was a teacher in the Benton County school system. Mrs. Stonner was a member of the Board of Commissioners of Education and served on the state board of the PTA.

Surviving are her widower, Dr. R. M. Stonner, of the home; one son John E. Stonner, Rochester, N.Y.; one daughter, Mrs. Marva Lee Flournoy, of the home; two brothers, Dr. Harold L. Young, Warrensburg; Gerald B. Young, Raytown; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Young, Lincoln; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Wesley United Methodist Church with the Rev. Thomas D. Hall and the Rev. George Sparling officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Hanson and Mrs. Robert Woolery will provide the music.

Pallbearers will be Dr. T. S. Hopkins, Elmer Klein, William Kunz, Dr. Coy McNabb, Robert Phillips, Kenneth Rowlette, Earl Wenig, Seigel Woodard and Lee Young.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday at the Heckart-Gillespie Funeral Home.

Mrs. Mable G. Thomas

Mrs. Mable G. Thomas, 80, formerly of 1512 East Broadway, died at the Buena Vista Home at 4 a.m. Thursday.

The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Miss Mary Ellen Homan

OTTERVILLE — Miss Mary Ellen Homan, 62, died early Wednesday evening at Bothwell Hospital, Sedalia, after a long illness.

She was born Jan. 25, 1910, at Otterville, daughter of the late Altha Lee and Grace Ellen Mason Homan.

She worked 18 years at the Bank of Otterville and 10 years at the Commerce Bank of Tipton.

She spent all of her life in Otterville and was a member of the Otterville Baptist Church.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Grover Stahl, Clarksburg; and Mrs. Ralph Williams, Otterville.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Otterville Baptist Church with the Rev. Warren Haley officiating.

Burial will be in the IOOF Cemetery.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday at the Hays-Painter Funeral Home, Otterville, and until one hour before the services.

British Proposals
Bring Crisis Talks

BELFAST, (AP) — Prime Minister Brian Faulkner was recalled to London tonight for crisis talks on Britain's proposals for restoring peace to troubled Northern Ireland.

Faulkner called an emergency session of his cabinet after conferring with Prime Minister Edward Heath by telephone this afternoon.

Faulkner had given his cabinet details of the British plan at a two-hour cabinet session this morning. A statement followed saying only: "The cabinet of Northern Ireland are entirely united but have no further statement to make at the present time."

Faulkner had conferred with Heath for 9½ hours in London Wednesday.

There were indications that Faulkner feels the British proposals go too far against Northern Ireland's Protestant majority.

A cabinet session in London broke up with no statement as to what went on.

The length of Wednesday's meeting indicated Faulkner put up stiff resistance to the degree of concessions made to the Roman Catholic minority.

Officials at Stormont Castle, seat of the provincial government, said the British plan was more "radical" than "mild." One London newspaper reported the situation was "moving into a state of deep crisis" and the gap between London and Belfast was enormous.

Details of the plan were a closely guarded secret. Heath has already promised the province's one million Protestants that their six counties will remain British as long as they want them to. But he also must try to persuade the 500,000 Catholics that they will receive equal treatment and a genuine share in promised prosperity.

There was no indication when the proposals would be published or how much longer Protestant objections might delay them. A communique issued in London Wednesday night said Heath and Faulkner "will be in touch again following meetings of their cabinets."

The would-be peacemakers face two major obstacles: Ulster's Protestants say they'll fight any dilution of their power, and the guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army say they will not accept anything short of union with the Catholic Irish Republic.

While the political leaders met Wednesday, Belfast's sixth major bombing in three days ripped apart a main railroad station, damaged the capital's biggest hotel and sent 70 people to the hospital with cuts.

In Londonderry early today army bomb disposal experts dismantled a time bomb packed with 70 pounds of gelignite planted outside a supermarket.

Four British soldiers were wounded — none seriously — by snipers during the night.

Political Message Is
'Airmailed'

It wasn't funny, but anytime a gift-wrapped brick sails through your living room window it is strange at best.

When the special delivery brick crashed through the storm glass and plate glass at the Garland Foster residence, 1412 South New England, at 2:47 a.m. Thursday, no one in the house knew what caused the noise. The discovery of the brick, however, prompted Foster to call police.

Attached to the brick was a piece of unusual hand-written political literature. The note read: "Support Gov. George Wallace of Alabama or else. This is only a small sample of what's to come. KKK. You will be contacted at a later date." The note was postscripted with profanity directed at Foster.

The brick was packaged in aluminum foil, had a neatly-tied pink bow, along with a green ribbon and an envelope addressed to Foster.

Foster told police that he and his wife had no idea who threw the brick. Damage to the window was estimated at $90.

File Suit Seeking
$22,000 Judgment

A four-count damage suit for a total of $22,000 was filed Wednesday in Circuit Court against William C. Dotson, 706 North New York.

The suit, filed jointly by Earl Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Jerold Underwood and their two sons, Steven and Danny, all of Council Bluffs, Iowa, stems from a two-car accident July 11, 1970, about 1.8 miles north of Highways H and HH on U.S. Highway 65.

Each of the Underwood youths, both passengers in Hansen's auto, are asking $5,000 in damages for alleged injuries while their parents seek $2,000 to cover hospital and travel expenses for coming from Council Bluffs. Hansen is seeking $10,000 for alleged injuries and damage to his car.

Five-year Prison
Term For Sedalian

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARSAW — Gary Curry, 20, 617 Wilkerson, Sedalia, was sentenced to a five-year prison term Tuesday at a hearing held at the Benton County Circuit Court on a charge of armed robbery.

Sheriff Bob Breshears told The Democrat-Capital that Curry was released from custody under $10,000 bond pending the completion of a pre-sentencing investigation. Curry requested a parole.

The final decision on Curry's sentence is expected when he appears in Circuit Court here April 21.

Curry entered a guilty plea to the charge. He allegedly broke into the Robert Bohm residence, Route 3, Sedalia, April 8, 1970, and took a shotgun and a rifle and then took another shotgun and rifle from the Cebe Brownfield farm, about a mile north of the Bohm residence.

Session
At Paris
Canceled

PARIS (AP) — The United States and South Vietnam today canceled next week's session of the Vietnam peace talks and said the Communist side must show a desire for serious discussion before the conference can be resumed.

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong rejected these conditions.

The conference appeared on the verge of a total breakup unless the opposing sides altered their stands.

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter told the Communists at today's session: "As for meetings in the weeks that follow, we believe it would be preferable to await some sign from you that you are disposed to engage in meaningful exchanges on the various points raised in your and our proposals."

The North Vietnamese spokesman called Porter's statements an ultimatum to sabotage the conference and said Porter's move was "a hysterical and dangerous act without precedent."

He said North Vietnam firmly rejects Porter's conditions. The Viet Cong spokesman said, "We can never accept them."

Porter told the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese envoys: "As you know, President Nixon ... has declared next week as a week of national concern for our men held prisoner by you and your associates. It would be a mockery of our concern for them to sit in this room with you and listen to more of your blackmail and distortion to the effect that the prisoner of war issue is an 'imaginary problem.' Therefore our side does not agree to a meeting next week."

Pham Dang Lam of South Vietnam accused the Communists of "shameless blackmail with regard to the fate of the prisoners of war you hold."

The American delegate said "our side intends to suggest meetings to discuss particular points or subjects whenever such discussions appear likely to be useful."

The allied side had listened while North Vietnam asserted that Nixon is preventing the return of American prisoners of war and increasing their number by "prolonging, intensifying and expanding" the Vietnam war.

Delta Town
Slashed By Communists

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces slashed into a district town in the Mekong Delta on Wednesday firing automatic weapons and rocket grenades and killed 19 of the local militiamen and police and nine of their wives and children.

Another 29 of the defenders were wounded in the attack on Truc Giang, 50 miles southwest of Saigon. The assault force destroyed the police headquarters and a housing complex for the families of the defenders and heavily damaged the district headquarters, the Saigon command said.

Spokesmen said the enemy left nine dead behind, and one man was captured, along with a B40 rocket grenade launcher and four AK47 assault rifles.

Communist forces also attacked the command post of a South Vietnamese armored cavalry regiment in southern Cambodia early today, shelled the main South Vietnamese base for the current operations in eastern Cambodia and fired 261 rockets and mortar rounds at five government positions along the demilitarized zone and farther south near Hue.

Twenty-nine rockets hit the big Tay Ninh West base camp 60 miles northwest of Saigon in two barrages late Wednesday, killing seven persons, wounding seven and destroying more than 100,000 gallons of fuel. The dead included four children who were hit when some of the 100-pound missiles overshot the base and landed in a residential area.

It was the second attack on the base in as many days. Communist sappers invaded it Tuesday, killing 13 South Vietnamese troops and wounding 14.

Tay Ninh West is the headquarters for the 10,000-man South Vietnamese offensive now under way against enemy base camps in eastern Cambodia. Field reports said that force uncovered new ammunition and supply depots and captured more than 2,000 rocket, mortar and recoilless rifle shells, 5,000 uniforms, 2,000 hammocks and 65 sheets of iron.

There were no casualties in the enemy shelling along the DMZ and near Hue, the South Vietnamese command said.

Young Boy Escapes
Injuries in Mishap

For the second day in a row a pedestrian crossing a street was struck by a car at 7:56 a.m. Thursday.

Ronald Thomas, 15, son of F. D. Thomas, 316 North Hill, was hit after he apparently ran across the street into the path of a westbound auto on East Broadway, 200 feet east of South Massachusetts. Thomas said he was not injured and did not seek medical attention.

Driving the 1966 Volkswagen was Hazel Louis Salmon, 57, 1102 Crescent Drive. She told police that she could not stop in time to avoid hitting Thomas. She said the boy ran out in front of her car.

Thomas told police he had looked for traffic approaching from the west, but did not check to see if a car was coming from the east before he ran out in front of the Salmon vehicle.

No traffic citations were issued.

Divorce Is Male Privilege There

By ALY MAHMOUD
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — In the Moslem world a wife may be divorced and not even know about it.

Under Islam, divorce is a male-vested privilege.

To legally get rid of his wife a Moslem husband is required only to face her and declaim: "I divorce thee, I divorce thee, I divorce thee."

And Moslem husbands can divorce their wives in absentia, merely by declaring this intention to a justice of the peace. The divorce takes effect immediately, but the wife may remain ignorant of her new status.

In Egypt and Syria Moslem women frequently have launched campaigns to curb what they call the "tyrannical right" of husbands to rid themselves of unwanted wives. So far they have failed to change the law.

In other Moslem countries, such as Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, women are rarely permitted to defend their "rights."

Polygamy, however, has ceased to be a problem in much of the Moslem world. Men with more than one wife amount to no more than two per cent of those married in Egypt, 5.5 per cent in Saudi Arabia.

The reason for the decline of polygamy is purely economic, according to Dr. Hassan Saati of Cairo University. Men no longer are able to support two, much less four, wives in the Arab world.

But divorce remains a deeply entrenched male prerogative, mainly because of rules laid down in the Koran, the Moslem Bible.

Religious interpreters of Egypt's prestigious Al-Azhar University strongly oppose any attempt by women to change the rules of marriage and divorce. Religious leaders in other Moslem countries insist Koranic rules of divorce are sacrosanct.

At one time women in Egypt, Syria and Tunisia demanded divorce be granted only by law courts and only with the wife's consent.

A draft law in Cairo would end the practice of men divorcing their wives in absentia. Before the divorce could be granted the couple would be advised to reconsider their decision and return within 30 days should they fail to reconcile their differences.

Polly's Pointers

Hints On Care Of Septic Tank

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My answer is for Mrs. J. C. D. who has moved into a house with a septic tank so would like some suggestions as to its proper care. I suggest that she obtain a blueprint of the exact location and size of the tank, how deep it is buried, etc. Of course, if they installed this themselves they will know all of this.

I believe the most important thing is to have the septic tank pumped out every couple of years to prevent any backup. The time depends on the size of the family and the tank. Also, once the tank is pumped out nothing need be added to it to start the reactivating process. Save your money and forget all those useless gimmicks. Following these simple things we have never had any trouble with ours with a family of five using it for 13 years. — MRS. A. V.

DEAR READERS — Two experts I consulted both said today's tanks are engineered for an average family of three or four and usually should be checked about every three years. I also learned that maintenance by a professional is important. Solids should never be over one-third of the depth and this includes the "crust" on the top as well as the solids below. Grease traps tend to hold odors and the old remedy of yeast does not work as it does not reactivate. The bacteria must not be destroyed. I was also told that such a tank should be used like a sewer and not be bled but do take care and not put disposable diapers, sanitary napkins, tissues that do not easily disintegrate down the toilet. For additional information, the U.S. government will supply pamphlets with information. — POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with spice cans and salt boxes that have no opening for a spoon. I find filling a measuring spoon from the shaker hole or a spout is both difficult and wasteful. About half the spice misses the spoon, then suddenly too much comes out and it is next to impossible to get any of this back into the can so it has to be thrown away. — MEG

For Women

War Dads and Auxiliary Celebrate 30 Years

Members of Sedalia chapter No. 31 of the American War Dads and Auxiliary celebrated that organization's 30th anniversary March 18 and 19 at the national council meeting in Kansas City. The organization was founded in 1942 by Nat Milgram in Kansas City.

National auxiliary president, Mrs. Hazel Deahl, conducted the meetings and presented a short resume of her recent trip to Washington D.C. to the women's forum, "Stand Up America."

It was voted that a letter be drafted and sent to the government relaying the group's feelings regarding freedom of speech.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Brent Samuels, 1709 South Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Bryant, Cole Camp were among the local group that attended the meeting.

Teasdale Seeks Aid Of Walker

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — "Walking Joe" Teasdale of Missouri wants to join forces with "Walking Dan" Walker of Illinois to campaign for governor of their respective states.

Teasdale, Jackson County's prosecuting attorney, said Wednesday Walker's victory over Lt. Gov. Paul Simon in the Illinois Democratic primary Tuesday convinced him he can win his primary battle.

Walker, who has trudged more than 1,000 miles in his campaigning, and Teasdale, who has legged it hundreds of miles, met recently on the Eads Bridge connecting their states at St. Louis.

"He told me if he won he'd give me some assistance in my campaign," Teasdale said at a news conference.

"I hope we can work out some dates for him to make appearances in Missouri," Teasdale said.

Teasdale, who is prosecuting a murder case moved from Kansas City to St. Louis County, said he and Walker have much in common, but not in the area of campaign financing. "We're both fighting the machine," Teasdale said.

Teasdale said, however, that Walker has more money than he does to spend on campaigning.

DO-IT-YOURSELF DESIGN

Designers are letting you put your own artistry to their creations. With new tank tops with tiny shorts, for sleepwear or beachwear, you can choose from a snail, fish or lion design. But that's not all. After you've chosen your favorite animal pattern, you color it yourself with a special pack of crayons that comes with the outfit. After coloring, all you have to do is iron on the design for permanence.

Youth Turn To Art For Self-Expression

The desire of today's youth is to find a creative form of self-expression and many students are turning to art, as can be seen at the State Fair Community College art department.

About 200 students each semester enroll in the SFCC art program. An estimated 25 of these are art majors and 15 minor in the subject, Douglass Freed, art instructor, said.

Art courses offered at the college include art appreciation, drawing, design, contemporary art history, art problems and cinematography.

Every spring there is a state-wide art show and this year it will be held at Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield. Outstanding art work to be entered in competition from SFCC will be selected by Freed and Miss Mary Ellen Hocker, art instructors.

Students from SFCC who won honorable mention at the state-wide art show are Miss Barbara Brazos, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John C. Brazos, Route 2, in 1970 for a drawing; and Mrs. Karl Berry, 2504 West 32nd, in 1971 for a painting.

It is the general philosophy of both instructors to teach students the basic fundamentals of art and then let each of them develop and apply themselves and find their own area of creativity and expression.

In painting students work in such media as water color, oils, acrylics and spray enamels. Students in drawing classes use pastels, charcoals, conte crayons, pen and brush, and India ink. Creative materials used in the design classes vary with materials such as paper, card board, wood, plastics, and designer colors used.

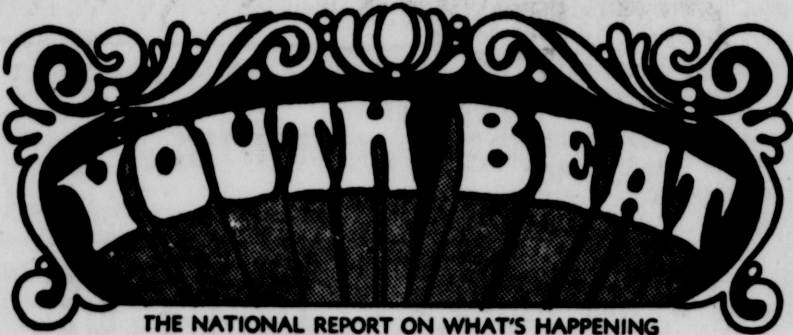

About 50 to 60 per cent of the art students prefer contemporary art, Freed said. One of the reasons for such a large percentage is that students can express themselves more freely in contemporary art. Students also produce abstract, figurative and non-objective paintings and drawings, he said.

The Art Club and college students take field trips to various colleges and universities to see what type of art program each school has, Miss Hocker said. Also field trips are taken to art galleries, art exhibits and museums such as the Nelson Gallery of Art, Kansas City; St. Louis Museum of Art; Washington University, St. Louis; Central Missouri State College; and the Kansas City Art Institute, she said.

Two art shows are planned at SFCC this year. The first is April 10 to May 1 and will feature Freed's paintings and Miss Hocker's drawings and sculptures.

Freed exhibits extensively in profession art exhibits in the midwest and was named Outstanding Artist Under 30 in Missouri in 1970-71. He was awarded the purchase award at the Little Rock Art Center, and has received several cash awards in the college and university division at the Missouri State Fair. Freed won second in 1971; third in 1970; and fourth in 1969 at the fair.

The students' art show is May 1-20 and will feature all the students' work. Cash awards will be given to the three top art exhibits. Both are open to the public and art work will be on sale, it was reported.

BRINGING IN THE FEDS—War has been declared. One million dollars has been set aside for battle. And everyone but Eliot Ness is being drafted into the squad.

The good guys are members of the Recording Industry Association of America, which handles 85 per cent of the legitimate record and tape business. Their weapons include a team of lawyers, FBI men, money and a new federal law.

The bad guys are the pirates and bootleggers, who are conducting big-time business operations out of the backs of monstrous trucks parked in shopping centers on weekends. Their weapons include access to studios, shifty retailers, low-cost production and a certain elusiveness. They are men with names like Felix the Cat, who are spoken of only in whispers, said to control the bogus tape business on the West Coast.

Contrary to the belief of some panic-stricken pirates, the Feds will not emerge with tommy guns from black limousines to raid warehouses which store the loot. Instead, a field staff, disguised as mild-mannered ordinary citizens, will browse around record retailers across the country. If the decoys turn up with goods that violate the new federal anti-pirating copyright laws, they'll notify the government authorities. This leaves the shop owner subject to a jail term, a $1,000 fine and a padlock on his door.

Felix and friends manage to produce the eight-track tapes overnight and sell them for almost nothing, causing the Recording Industry of America companies a loss they estimate at $150 million annually.

The artists are losing large amounts in royalties, the distributors are losing sales and the federal, state and local governments are losing substantial tax revenues. That's why they all joined the fight. The war is on.

4-H News

GREEN RIDGE — The county health nurse, Mrs. Diane Piant, showed a film on "Care of the Skin" at the recent meeting of the Van Natta 4-H Club.

Bobby Shepp, president, called the meeting to order and pledges were led by Jeff Callahan.

Annette Harrison, Barbara Upton, Jr. Warren, Tina Dove and Sandy Shepp gave project reports. Demonstrations were given by Annette Harrison, Cathy Pritchard and Dennis Dove.

The club had a recent poster and essay contest on recycling cans. The poster contest was won by Ricky Kreisel and Vickie Smith won the essay contest.

The next meeting is April 7 at the Chamber of Commerce Building.

The Heber Hunt Helping Hands met recently at Heber Hunt Elementary School and were taught fishing skills. Everyone brought a fishing pole and went outside and practiced casting.

There were nine members, two guests and two leaders present at the meeting.

The next meeting is at 5:30 p.m. April 18 at Liberty Park and a cook-out has been planned.

Mrs. John McClure gave a speech on recycling to the members of the Northwest 4-H Club. A trash pick-up and scrap iron day will be held April 8 in Hughesville.

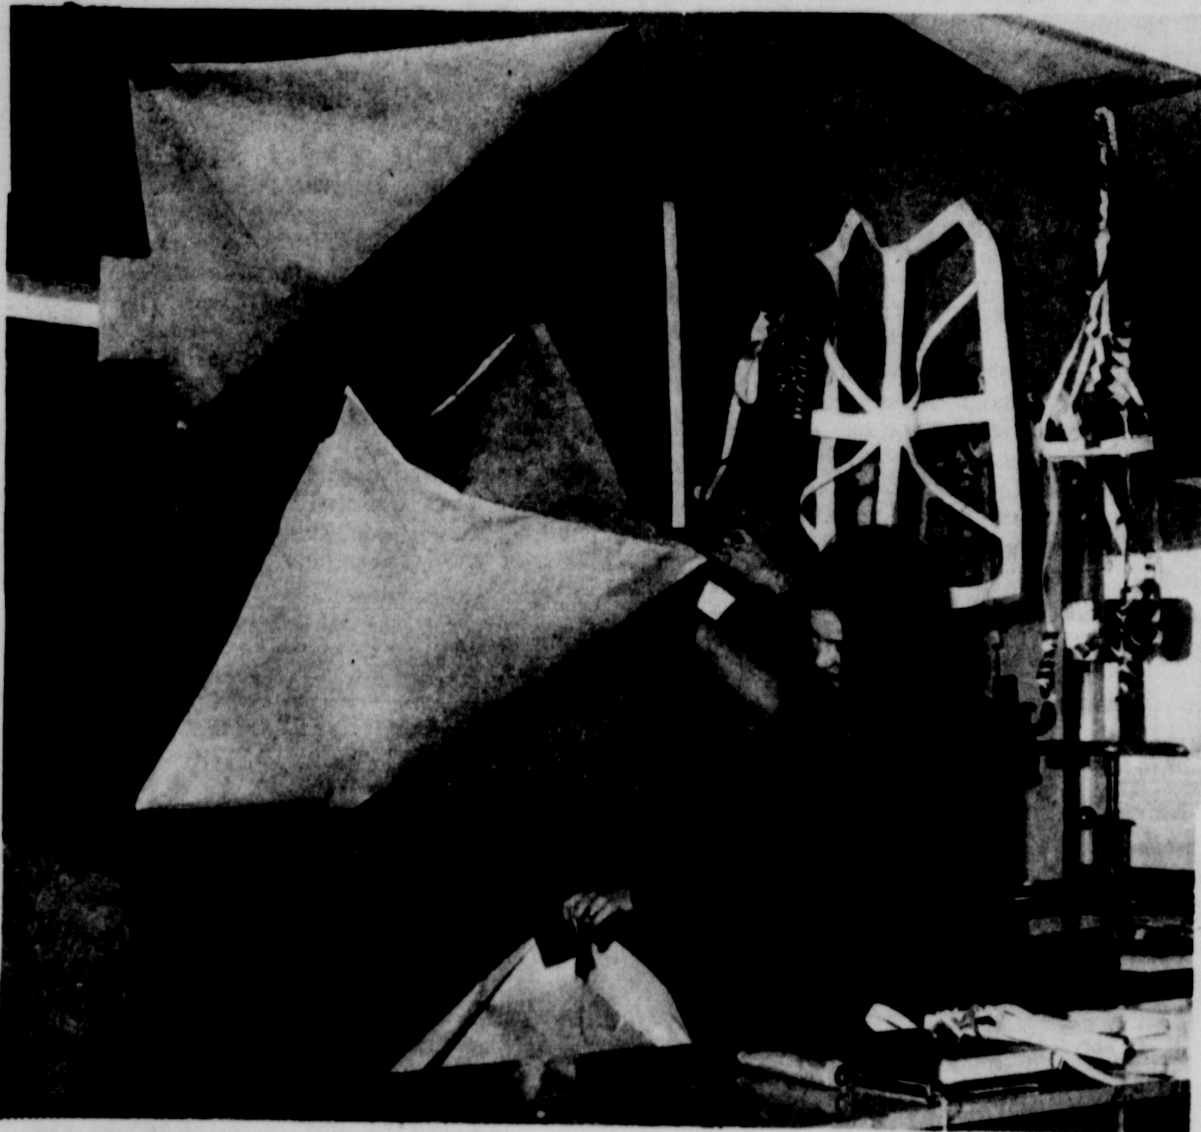

Demonstrations were given by Tommy Killion, Sheila McClure, Billy Wheeler and Donnie Marcum.

There were 22 members present and the next meeting will be held April 10. The program will be on safety and the guest speaker is Sgt. Jim Happy of the Missouri Highway Patrol.

Seniors Present Play

(Democrat-Capitol Service)

The senior class of Knob Noster High School will present "The Lilies of the Field" at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The play was adapted by F. Andrew Leslie from the novel by William E. Barrett, which brought Sidney Poitier the academy award for his portrayal of Homer Smith.

In the story, Homer Smith discovers a group of nuns working in the dusty fields of the southwest as he is traveling around the country. He stops to offer help and Mother Superior, is convinced that God sent Homer to them to help build the mission.

Jose Ratchford is cast in the role of Homer Smith; Janice Keeney is Mother Maria Martha; and Roger Gatschet plays Father Gomez.

Other members of the cast are: Madona Landor, Wanetta Hill, Debbie Stinson, Patty Peebles, Wanda Reider, Margaret Rehkop, and Debbie Marks. The Sisters: Larry Bennett, Jose Gonzalez; David Strickland, Orville Livingston; and Roxanne MacDougall, Mexican waitress.

Mrs. R. M. Scott is the director of the play.

Musical numbers will be presented by Steve Chaney, Audrey Brookins, Archie Lipscomb and John Manning.

David Upton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Upton, of Green Ridge, was presented the Eagle Scout Award at a court of honor held at the Green Ridge Presbyterian Church Sunday afternoon. David is a member of Explorer Post No. 152. He attended the 13th World Boy Scout Jamboree at Asagiri Heights near Tokyo, Japan in August 1971.

Big Gains Are Seen For Agnew

By LOUIS HARRIS

Vice President Spiro Agnew has gained substantially as the top choice of Republican voters to be renominated with President Nixon at the GOP National Convention in San Diego in August. Agnew receives 49 per cent of the preference votes of rank-and-file Republicans, more than the combined total for the other men tested against him: Treasury Secretary John Connally (17 per cent), Gov. Ronald Reagan (14 per cent), Gov. Nelson Rockefeller (6 per cent), and Sen. Edward Brooke (5 per cent).

In a similar test last August, Agnew led the field with 37 per cent as the first choice of Republican voters to be President Nixon's running mate. Since then, of course, the President said in a January interview that he had no plans to replace Agnew on the ticket. And the survey also indicates that the Vice President is not presently viewed by voters as being as much of an extremist as he was a year or two ago.

When Republican voters were asked nationwide in February about their preference for the GOP Presidential nomination, Nixon won hands down—with 85 per cent of the preferences, compared with only 4 per cent for Rep. Paul McCloskey of California and 2 per cent for Rep. William Ashbrook of Ohio. This survey was taken before Rep. McCloskey announced his withdrawal as an active candidate.

Among independent voters, however, Nixon dropped to 50 per cent of the vote, compared with 12 per cent for McCloskey, 3 per cent for Ashbrook, and a high 35 per cent undecided. Independents are eligible to take part in most state presidential primaries. When Republicans and independents were combined, the results were 73 per cent for Nixon, 7 per cent for McCloskey and 2 per cent for Ashbrook.

In mid-February, a cross section of 633 enrolled Republicans and 344 independents across the country were asked: "Which person on this list would be your first choice for the Republican nomination for Vice President in 1972?"

Choice for Vice President
	Rep. & Ind. %	Rep. %	Ind. %
Vice Pres. Agnew
Feb. 1972	42	49	27
Aug. 1971	32	37	22
Treas. Sec. Connally
Feb.	16	17	13
Aug.	20	19	22
Gov. Reagan
Feb.	13	14	12
Aug.	17	20	15
Gov. Rockefeller
Feb.	8	6	14
Aug.	13	12	19
Sen. Brooke*
Feb.	8	5	13
None or Not Sure
Feb.	13	9	21
Aug.	18	18	22

* Not asked about in Aug.

Among independents, the Vice President is not as strong as among fellow Republicans. But he still easily leads any of the more prominently mentioned alternatives to him for the number two spot on the ticket.

Sen. Brooke, the black Senator from Massachusetts, runs almost evenly with Gov. Rockefeller, who slipped sharply after the Attica Prison outbreak which resulted in the death of 43 persons. Brooke's showing among Republicans is comparable to that of Rep. Shirley Chisholm among Democrats nationwide.

In the way he is perceived by voters, Vice President Agnew now appears to be coming back to the ideological profile he possessed in 1968.

Two years ago, 21 per cent of the voters judged the Vice President had become "radical" in his political positions. He did not do notably well for candidates he campaigned for in the 1970 off-year elections.

Now the number who feel he is a "radical" has shrunk almost in half. The majority rate him conservative to moderate. This shift toward midstream has coincided with a much lower visibility for the Vice President, especially on controversial matters.

Barring an upset in one of the state primaries, Nixon appears to be the overwhelming choice for renomination among his own party members. The cross section of Republicans and independents was asked: "Which one of the men on this list would be your first choice for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1972?"

First Choice for President
	Rep. & Ind. %	Rep. %	Ind. %
Nixon	73	85	50
McCloskey	7	4	12
Ashbrook	2	2	3
None or Not Sure	18	9	35

The President's trip to China appeared to have knocked the props out from under the opposition of Rep. McCloskey, who had been his chief critic among Republicans for not ending the Vietnam war. Rep. Ashbrook, who had opposed the President from the right, was particularly critical of his trip to China. On a national basis, he does not appear to have gotten off the ground.

Jet-Age Version Of Race

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A sort of jet-age version of the fabled race between the tortoise and the hare was to be run from Chicago to St. Louis today.

The idea is to demonstrate that a 240-mile-an-hour, short-takeoff-and-landing (STOL) aircraft can get a traveler to his destination more quickly than a 600-mile-an-hour jetliner.

Two travelers are to leave a hotel in Chicago's Loop by taxi at 2:40 p.m. One will board an Ozark Air Lines DC9 at O'Hare Airport. The other will climb into a De Havilland DHC6 STOL aircraft at Meigs Airport, a small field on the lakefront near the Loop.

Of course, the jet will cover the distance to St. Louis in less time than the De Havilland Twin Otter—58 minutes as opposed to 90 minutes.

But the key feature of the demonstration is reducing travel time and distance to the airport in Chicago and to the midtown Ramada Inn in St. Louis.

The travel time to O'Hare is about 45 minutes and to Meigs about 15 minutes. It's another 45 minutes from Lambert-St. Louis Airport to the Ramada Inn compared with about 15 minutes from where the STOL airplane will land—an unopened section of Interstate 44.

Danforth's Audit

Shows Deficiencies

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Republican State Auditor Christopher "Kit" Bond reported Wednesday an audit of the office of Republican Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth disclosed some fiscal deficiencies.

He said his staff showed Danforth's accountant how to handle the accounting of state matching funds under a federal program.

He said the audit also disclosed that delinquent taxes collected by the office were not immediately turned over to the state treasurer and this was corrected during the audit.

Bond also criticized the length of time elapsing before delinquent tax accounts were turned over to the attorney general by the Revenue Department. A pending bill would transfer the collection procedure to the Revenue Department and Danforth has endorsed it.

Legal Technicians

Committee Formed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Bar has set up a special committee to study the use of legal technicians to help lawyers serve middle income people.

Ernest H. Fremont Jr. of Kansas City, bar president, appointed Meredith Turner of Springfield as chairman Wednesday to serve with Dick H. Woods and James Benjamin of Kansas City and Don Kramer, Richard Mehan and Sanford Sarasohn of St. Louis.

Legal technicians would be especially trained lay persons, not members of the bar, who would work under supervision of lawyers just as medical technicians work with doctors.

A piece of wood touched only by a master's finger can be selected by a trained dog from 20 other identical pieces.

Curiosity Results In Ride

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Curiosity about a railroad car her husband had bought led to an unscheduled ride around Hutchinson recently for Mrs. Ted Niciecki and a friend.

Mrs. Niciecki's husband, owner-operator of a local restaurant, had bought the car planning to remodel it and use it as a steak house and club next to his establishment. When it was learned the car had arrived and was sitting on the Rock Island tracks in South Hutchinson, Mrs. Niciecki and a waitress, Kathy Ginest, went to inspect it.

Leaving their automobile running, they went inside the car. No sooner had they gotten to the center than they felt a bump and the railroad car began moving.

Pulled by a switch engine, it inched its way over spurs and sidetracks for about an hour. Finally it pulled up behind a Hutchinson store.

An obliging crewman got his automobile and took the two women back to their still-running car.

Mrs. Niciecki jokingly vowed to post guards anytime she boards the railroad car from now on.

Opportunity To Address Candidates

The Sedalia-Pettis County League of Women voters will sponsor a "know your candidate" meeting for candidates seeking positions on the Sedalia board of education at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Little Theatre, Smith-Cotton High School.

Seeking school board positions are Glenn M. Kell Jr., and Dr. C. W. Monsees, both incumbents, and James D. Lee.

The League has prepared two questions that the candidates will be asked to answer. Both questions have been mailed to the candidates and they are:

"1. A number of persons in the community have said they still feel the school board is reluctant to fully inform the public on their actions and decisions regarding major issues. What are your feelings about this?"

"2. This year an advisory committee was used in the study and re-evaluation of curriculum at Smith-Cotton High School. Explain your feelings concerning the use of similar committees in arriving at important school board decisions."

Following introductory speeches, the audience will be asked to submit written questions to the candidates. The questions will be screened to prevent duplication and questions aimed at personalities rather than issues.

Candidates will also be invited to question each other or comment on statements made previously by others.

School Board Candidates Are Selected

(Democrat-Capital Service) KNOB NOSTER — Melvin Foster and Lee Gatschet were nominated as candidates for positions on the Knob Noster Board of Education during a mass meeting here Monday. Foster is an incumbent and Gatschet is seeking the office for the first time.

Cletus Tucker, the other incumbent, was nominated to run but declined. About 16 eligible voters attended the meeting. Friday is the filing deadline for the office.

The school election will be held in conjunction with the city election April 4. The polling place will be the Knob Noster city hall.

Reaction Is Mixed To Commission Plan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The recommendation by a national commission to abolish criminal penalties for private use of marijuana has drawn mixed reaction among both the nation's youth and law enforcement officials.

Some officials gave qualified support to the idea, but others branded recommendations by the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse as impractical and even dangerous.

Harry J. Anslinger, U.S. commissioner of Narcotics from 1930 to 1962, said the commission's recommendations could have "very serious national repercussions" and he called the findings "terrifying."

But Walter Richter, director of the Texas Program on Drug Abuse, said the group's report was "a very sane and humane and reasonable approach" that would free law enforcers to deal with the problem of hard drugs.

"I would be the last one to recommend anyone get involved with pot, but I think this helps put it in perspective," he said.

The 13-member commission, at the end of a year's study, urged Wednesday that the government end prosecution of marijuana users but continue jail terms and fines for growing or selling pot.

San Francisco Undersheriff Reuben Greenberg said he "agrees completely" with that recommendation. "We think the use of marijuana should be restricted, but not made illegal, the same way alcohol is."

But the proposal not to prosecute marijuana users and not to legalize it either was, in the opinion of Alabama Public Safety Director W. L. Allen, like "trying to follow the line of being just a little pregnant."

Anslinger, who spearheaded passage of the federal Marijuana Tax Act in 1937, said liberalization of the law would cause the number of heroin users in the country to "mushroom."

"If these recommendations go through, allowing smoking in secret without any penalty, then I think in a couple of years we'll have about a million lunatics filling up the mental hospitals and a couple of hundred thousand more deaths on the highways—just plain slaughter on the highways," he said.

Opinions also were divided on college campuses and among others of the nation's youth.

Robin Arron, 18, of Sulfur, Okla., said she was opposed to all drugs and said of the report, "I think it's terrible ... To put it bluntly, we're going to have a lot of freak kids running around if they do this."

But Mike Taylor, managing editor of the student newspaper at the University of Missouri-Kansas City, disagreed.

"I definitely think they're on the right track. I don't think they're going to have any progress on drug abuse laws until marijuana is at least legalized," he said. "From what I've read and seen, the only thing wrong with it (marijuana) is that it's illegal."

Jeremy Bluhm, on the editorial staff of the Harvard Crimson, the student newspaper, said it was his personal view that "it is absolutely necessary to remove criminal penalties for private use" of marijuana.

While not completely endorsing the commission's report, many officials acknowledged the need for change in existing marijuana laws.

"Most of our laws about alcohol are too weak. Most of our laws about marijuana are too strong," said Dr. Walter Otto, assistant health officer in Chatham County (Savannah), Ga.

"This committee has taken a step in the direction of relaxing the extreme fear people have about marijuana."

Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch Jr. said he opposed complete elimination of criminal penalties for marijuana use but would like to see revision of current laws.

"I favor minimal misdemeanor penalties on the possession of small amounts of marijuana and minimal enforcement attention to such possession," he said.

Police Chief Derold Husby of Lansing, Mich., said enforcement of existing marijuana laws was hampered by lack of prosecution and "ridiculous sentences," but "I can't condone any report saying it (marijuana) should be used, and society should accept it."

Michigan State Police Director Col. John R. Plants called the recommendations "incongruous," saying of marijuana: "If it's bad to sell, it's bad to use."

Butz Sees No Meat Price Controls Planned

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz said here Wednesday night there is no inkling the Nixon Administration is considering price controls on meat.

Butz told a news conference he does not foresee the imposition of price controls and noted that raw farm commodity prices had been specifically exempted when President Nixon put wage-price controls into effect last Aug. 15.

Butz spoke to delegates to the National Pork Producers Council at a dinner Wednesday night. He said there were several reasons the administration would combat any control effort.

First, he said, President Nixon exempted raw agricultural prices "because he realizes that farm prices fluctuate. They can go up, but they also can come back down."

He cited food perishability as another reason—"you either sell it or smell it in the case of meat," he said.

Finally, Butz said, price controls likely would be accompanied by an unwanted Siamese twin—rationing—and possibly shortages.

"The way it is now, Butz said, the price of meat is high enough so there is always something there for the purchaser who wants it and low enough so the grocer doesn't have any left over."

Butz also had a special announcement for wheat and feed grain farmers upon his arrival from Springfield, Mo. He said that final set-aside acreage sign-ups, designed to alleviate current oversupplies of corn and wheat were right in the Department of Agriculture's targeted zones.

The USDA had hoped U.S. farmers would idle 38 million crop acres to reduce the 1972 yields of corn and wheat and thus bring about improvement in grain prices. Yesterday's announcement in Washington said this year's set-aside will total 37 million acres, the biggest reserve put up by farmers since the record 39.5 million two years ago.

Last year's participation was down because it was feared another outbreak of Southern Corn Leaf Blight might develop. It did not and U.S. farmers harvested 5.5 billion bushels, far too much for domestic livestock feeding and export. Farm prices plunged accordingly.

Butz said in his speech that productivity is a counterbalance to inflation, adding: "Do people know that over the last 10 years—and the last 20 years—farmers' output per man hour has increased twice as fast as in manufacturing? You are doing your part—and then some."

"Do those who call for a lid on farm prices know that the farmers' share of the food dollar has slipped from 49 cents to 38 cents in those 20 years. Do they know that food took $23 out of each $100 of income a person made 20 years ago and only $15.60 out of $100 this year—and that this food has incredibly more built-in conveniences now?"

As a final word to hog producers, Butz praised them for curbing their production in the last 12 months and thus helping dig themselves out of a price pit caused by overproduction a year or so earlier.

In Washington, the USDA said the farm sign-up period began Feb. 3 and closed March 10, when enrollments also were accepted for wheat and cotton programs.

Counting the three crops, more than 59 million acres will be idled under the government's 1972 set-aside programs.

Under the plan, farmers agree to take a portion of their land from production in return for price-support guarantees and payments for eligible crops grown in the remainder.

Government payments under the program this year are expected to total more than $4 billion, compared with about $3.2 billion in 1971.

Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Clarence D. Palmy told newsmen the total acreage to be set aside under the crop programs this year is practically on target with the goal of about 60 million acres.

Burying the Bus

Members of a Memphis, Tenn., anti-busing group bury an ancient orange school bus in a symbolic protest against court-ordered busing Wednesday.

About 600 mostly-white parents and students cheered wildly and pelted the bus with dirt clods as it was backed into its final resting place. (UPI)

City-Aid Proposal Gives Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hopes of governors and mayors that the federal government would throw them a fiscal lifeline have been buoyed by the House Ways and Means Committee's tentative approval of a $5.3-billion state-city aid bill.

The measure acted on Wednesday is a modified version of one Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., offered as a substitute for President Nixon's plan to share federal revenues with state and local governments.

Initially limited to five years, beginning this year, it would distribute $1.8 billion annually to states and $3.5 billion to cities and other local units.

The legislation holds out the possibility of merging the collection of federal and state income taxes, saving the states administrative costs and taxpayers most of the trouble of preparing two returns.

The committee will take another look at the measure in legislative form April 11. Final committee approval then would make a House vote likely late next month.

Mills, who at one stage said he would hold the hearings on Nixon's proposal only to kill it, contends his substitute is substantially different.

It is weighted in favor of the cities, low-income areas and states that make extensive use of their own income taxes.

The administration indicated it will embrace the measure as a vindication of its revenue-sharing initiative.

Complex formulas would govern the division of funds.

States would share on the basis of their revenue-raising efforts, with heavy emphasis on income tax. But all states would be guaranteed some money.

The distribution to cities and other local units would be based on population, urban concentration, per-capita income and to a minor degree—revenue raising.

The "piggyback" tax-collection system would be optional for states and would not go into effect unless at least five states accounting for at least five per cent of federal income taxpayers joined up.

Participating states would have to conform their income tax systems generally to the federal pattern, although some variations would be allowed.

The taxpayer then would fill out a simple supplement to his federal return. The federal government would handle withholding and remit to the states their share.

Mid-America Air Pollution Picture Isn't Completely Sky Blue

By CHET CURRIER
Associated Press Writer

Mid-America has never had to battle air pollution problems as pervasive as the smog that shrouds Los Angeles or the haze that plagues New York.

Residents in many areas of Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma are, in fact, prone to regard the air they breathe as about the cleanest in the nation.

Their state officials are generally confident of being ready—with a few exceptions—when the pollution control standards set by the Environmental Protection Agency under the 1970 Clean Air Act take effect in mid-1975.

But the 1972 pollution picture in the five-state area is hardly all blue sky.

Kansas City faces particular problems. The EPA told the city in January no more payments would be made on a federal air pollution grant until city officials step up the effectiveness of their antipollution program.

Even in Tulsa, where the city's antipollution efforts are often held up as a model for other areas to follow, authorities can say little more than, "We are holding our own."

Against this background—and despite arguments to the contrary by some environmentalists and legislators—many state officials in the area say they are optimistic about their ability to bring industries into compliance with new regulations on or ahead of schedule.

Mel Gray, director of the environmental health division of the Kansas Health Department, says he believes his state is making steady progress along that line.

"It's not hard for the state to clamp down on big industry," he says, although conceding "it may be tough for local governments to do it because of economic pressure."

All states were required to submit to the EPA by Jan. 30 reports of their plans for meeting the new standards set by the federal agency.

In its report, Missouri declared, "Practically all large polluting sources are in compliance with the regulations. This is accomplished by persuasion and conciliation and in some cases, where necessary, through court action."

Devices purchased to control any form of pollution are exempted from Missouri sales tax, and inspectors for the state Air Conservation Commission say the exemption records provide an excellent means of finding out which industries are installing pollution control equipment.

Meanwhile, local ordinances against open burning are spreading, most recently to such cities as Omaha and Wichita. Oklahoma has prohibited open burning in cities and towns of more than 10,000 persons, and the ban is scheduled to be extended to all the state's communities by mid-1974.

But the biggest problem, many state and local officials say, is out of their hands—regulation of pollution from automobiles, which is handled at the federal level.

Dr. C.L. Campbell, director of the air pollution division of the Iowa Health Department, says: "The major source of air pollutants in Iowa and any other place is the automobile."

In the Tulsa area, where a series of ordinances aimed at providing clean air have taken effect over the last several years, the automobile's contribution to total air pollution was measured in 1971 at 83 per cent. That figure has since risen to 90 per cent, officials say.

Midwestern weather and geography, of course, play a significant part, on both the positive and negative sides.

Dr. Campbell says one reason Iowa does not have a particularly serious air pollution problem is the state's terrain and wind patterns, which he says provide "frequent changes in wind and good ventilation."

In Kansas, Gray says the state will not meet the schedule set by its plan for particulates, except in an area of the southeastern part of the state.

The problem, he points out, is "background dust caused by activities carried on in this state—mainly agricultural."

"On days when the wind blows—and that is most days—there is no way we can meet these requirements. The wind picks up the dust off city streets, plowed fields and the landscape in general and carries it aloft. We need a much better soil conservation program to meet those requirements. Even after we've controlled all the industrial sources of air pollution, we're not going to meet that standard on particulates."

The charge has been raised that, whether they are met or not, at least some of the standards just aren't strict enough.

Some Nebraskans criticized the 300-page plan submitted to the EPA by their state because it lacked a "nondegradation" clause barring any drop in air quality from present levels.

The air in many parts of Nebraska is cleaner than it is in most other sections of the country, the critics argued, and it could be made considerably dirtier without violating a "lowest common denominator" national standard.

Members of the state Environmental Control Council, the agency responsible for adoption of the Nebraska plan, responded by pointing out that the 1971 bill which set up the council also decreed that the state could not set air quality standards tougher than those established at the federal level.

James Higgins, director of the state Environmental Control Department, which was established by the same 1971 act, says that compliance with the standards nevertheless will cost some industries heavily.

However, he said the Nebraska plan has generally been favorably accepted by industry and added, "They knew it was coming and they're just glad to have some type of plan they can work from."

Nebraska exempted its largest city, Omaha, from state control in 1970 after the city promised to enact its own antipollution plan.

Among the critics who say the city is guilty of inaction against pollution so far is state Sen. George Syas of Omaha. A ban on backyard burning is scheduled to take effect May 1, but Syas has contended that such burning causes little pollution and the state should worry instead about "the big guys."

Similar questions have been voiced in St. Louis County Missouri, where Donald Pecosok, the county air pollution control director, says a two-year-old ban on open leaf-burning has been protested by some individuals and municipalities.

Pecosok acknowledged the effect of the ban on total pollution is "exceedingly small." However, he said, leaf burning occurs at ground level and directly affects the 10 to 15 per cent of the county's population who suffer from asthma.

In St. Louis city, Paul T. Mydler, deputy air pollution control commissioner, says that the 1975 sulfur dioxide standard has already been met and that there is little doubt the particulate matter standard will be as well.

Harvey D. Shell, director of the Missouri Air Conservation Commission, says the plan submitted by the state asked for an extension until 1977 on control of carbon monoxide in the Kansas City and St. Louis regions and nitrogen dioxide in St. Louis.

Kansas also asked for a one-year extension, to 1976, for carbon monoxide control in its portion of the Kansas City metropolitan area, and both states pointed out that the pollutants in question stem primarily from the automobile.

Kansas City's situation has been taken under consideration by state authorities.

"At the present time the city's ordinance is not as comprehensive in its coverage as the state's," Carl Potter, air pollution control coordinator for the Kansas City, Mo., health department, acknowledged.

He said the city controls on particulates match those of the state, but they do not cover sulfur dioxide.

In submitting its plan, Iowa requested a two-year extension for nitrogen dioxide control in Dubuque and the Council Bluffs-Omaha areas.

Dr. Campbell said furnaces in use at power plants in both areas prompted that request. "The control technology for that type of boiler is not available at this time," he said.

Up to Here in Water

Rescue workers in boats move through four-foot deep flood waters in northwest Houston Tuesday. Rain, as much as 7 inches, fell in Houston, causing the flooding. Many of the area's occupants have been evacuated. (UPI)

Equal Rights Gets Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ending four decades of reluctance and indecision, Congress has approved a proposed constitutional amendment designed to provide equal rights for women.

The 84-8 Senate vote Wednesday that completed congressional action on the proposal brought shouts of joy and a spirited champagne party by supporters.

But Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., who lost 10 attempts to modify the amendment, said: "You are crucifying women on a cross of equality...Forgive them, Father, they know not what they do."

To take effect, the amendment must be ratified by legislatures of 38 states within seven years. It would become effective two years after ratification.

Hawaii, acting an hour after the Senate vote, became the first state to ratify.

"It finally happened," said Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y. "I don't believe this amendment will have the effect of creating identical human beings. I do believe it will create identical legal rights," said Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., floor manager of the amendment.

Ervin, who doggedly led a small band of senators against the amendment in four days of debate, argued that laws discriminating against women should be changed at the state level, not by constitutional amendment.

Proponents of the amendment said that would be too slow.

Ervin sought to have the amendment modified to preserve laws requiring fathers to support their children, to keep women out of the draft, and out of combat, but he lost each test.

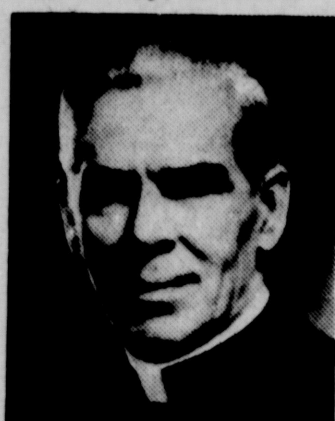

The military issue carried much of the debate, with Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, floating images of women in combat boots, toting M16s "and being made prisoners in the jungles."

He also predicted the measure would have little effect on support payments because "most fathers have the primary responsibility of supporting their children, not because they are fathers, not because they are men, but because they are the primary source of income for their families."

WINE OF THE WEEK

Alta Mira
Pale Dry Sherry... 5th $1.49

There are three well known types of Sherry wine, and a fourth which is less well known. Pale Dry Sherry, called Fino in Spain, is a very light aperitif wine, pale straw in color, should be served chilled and drunk before the meal.

Medium or Regular Sherry, in Spain called Amontillado, is darker in color, sweeter than the Pale Dry and the Sherry most commonly used in cooking.

Cream Sherry, (Oloroso in Spain), is a very sweet, heavy, dark dessert wine and is excellent after dinner.

The fourth, not particularly well known in America, is Manzanilla. Very light and dry.

Apathetic Response To League Meeting

For those present at the "Know Your Candidates" meeting Tuesday night at the courthouse, it was a depressing experience. Why so?

Here the Sedalia-Pettis County League of Women Voters arranged a public meeting between the voters and the four candidates for contested seats on the City Council. Only trouble was, no one bothered to show up.

After subtracting the candidates themselves, members of the League of Women Voters and newsmen, there were hardly any "voters" left. They could have caucused conveniently in a phone booth.

There is one word for what we saw Tuesday night.

Apathy.

Now granted that the April 4 election is not destined to go down as one of Sedalia's most exciting. Only two of the four city wards even boast a contest this year. Still, what candidates there are were there Tuesday night, prepared to state their positions and answer questions from the audience, and even grill one another if so moved.

It would have provided residents of the Third and Fourth Wards with an opportunity to size up the candidates and feel out their stands on various issues, and would have generally given them some facts before they enter the voting booths April 4.

Yet precious few cared enough to venture out on a fine spring evening to exercise this democratic right. The pull of Hawaii Five-O was evidently too powerful for many.

The League of Women Voters has performed a valuable service in setting up and conducting the "Know Your Candidates" meetings. But we wonder how much longer these will continue in the absence of public support.

Truman Dam Benefits

The primary purposes of the Truman Reservoir are flood control and hydro-electric generation. It will be very much a duplicate of the lake above which it is being built. Any determination of its effect on the environment may be calculated to a major degree by study of the Bagnell impoundment (Lake of the Ozarks). All wildlife native to this area have proliferated — some species to the point of becoming nuisances. The paddlefish, for instance, was a rarity in the free flowing, frequently rampaging, Osage River. Now we hear that we have the largest concentration in the United States.

There is no cause to believe that any form of wildlife could be endangered by being given extended range, improved food supply and habitation cover.

So much for the wildlife angle. Probably the most important and far reaching influence in the maintenance of environmental excellence for all life on earth is the absolutely pollution free generation of electricity, thereby slowing our consumption of fossil fuels (i.e. coal and petro fuels).

As a recreational facility the old Lake of the Ozarks had many shortcomings, the greatest of which was the fact that private ownership of the land extended to the water's edge. Access to the lake could be had by purchasing or renting, or paying facilities fees. Such is not to be the case in this instance. All lands bordering the lake are to be federally owned and supervised.

Campsite, sanitary facilities, boat launching facilities, etc., will be available at a minimum cost to the visitor. Hopefully, later there will be hiking and equestrian trails as well as untouched areas for nature studies. Fish hatcheries will be necessary and undoubtedly inviolable areas for the nesting of migratory waterfowl. Public hunting areas are in the realm of possibility. Hopefully there will be something for everyone in the master plan.

With regret we will see archaeological treasures, such as the shelters of possibly the first men to travel through here and the boggy areas where mastodon, giant sloth, muskox and other animal remains are found, inundated. Archaeological and paleontological teams are working as time and funding permit. We hope that most available knowledge will have been gleaned before the waters cover them.

Rt. 1, Edwards

Art Buchwald Shred Or Dead Is ITT Game

WASHINGTON — Among the many startling revelations that have come out of the International Telephone and Telegraph hearings is that ITT sent a team of security men down from New York to shred all of the memorandums in the company's Washington office.

Buchwald

ITT said this was absolutely necessary because Jack Anderson printed a confidential memo of lobbyist Dita Beard's (she has since denied writing it). The ITT people assured the Senate Judiciary Committee that they only destroyed "old memos" and "useless papers" and did not cut up anything that had to do with the hearings. They also said Dita Beard not only participated in the paper shredding but got so involved in it that she wanted to throw EVERYTHING away.

I can just imagine the scene as the security people bring in the paper shredder, which looks exactly like a wastepaper basket with blades on it.

"Well, Dita, we've come down from New York to destroy all your old memos and papers, but, of course, we have to be careful we do not destroy anything that could help the Senate investigation regarding our contribution to the Republican convention."

"Of course. Where shall we begin?"

"How about this program from the Kentucky Derby?"

"Oh boy, was that a Kentucky Derby! Did I ever tell you guys what I said to Atty. Gen. John Mitchell at Gov. Louis Nunn's house before I passed out on the floor?"

"We'd rather not hear about that, Dita."

"Well, I told him if his Justice Department didn't..."

"Dita, please. Can we get on with the shredding? Now, what about these folders on the San Diego Sheraton hotels?"

"I thought you wanted me to give them to the Republican National Committee to show them what they were getting for our noble $400,000 commitment."

"Dita, there is NO $400,000 commitment."

"Oh? Why didn't someone tell me, so I wouldn't have put it in my memo which Jack Anderson printed?"

"You didn't write a memo about the $400,000."

"Well, if I didn't write it, why are you shredding it?"

"We're just trying to clean out our files, Dita. It's company policy to do this every two years. Now what about this autographed photo of Peter Flanagan from the White House?"

"You're not going to shred that, are you?"

"We have a saying at ITT headquarters, Dita — 'Better shred than dead.'"

"Why are you shredding my Hartford Fire Insurance policy?"

"It's been canceled. We don't want anyone to think that one of our lobbyists had any connection with Hartford Fire Insurance. But since we own the Grinnell Fire Sprinkler Co., too, we'll install new sprinklers in your house."

"Bless you. I knew ITT had a heart. What are you doing with that book?"

"We don't believe you need 'Six Crises' by Richard Nixon any more, Dita. Someone might think the President was involved in our antitrust settlement."

"Well, can I keep 'The Richard Kleindienst Cookbook'?"

"Dita, you know better than that. I think we better shred this, too."

"You're not going to shred my Avis car, are you?"

"Headquarters thinks it's best that we do. There is no telling what Jack Anderson could find in the glove compartment."

A Conservative View

The 'Super Snooper Bill' Is Coming

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — A Senate subcommittee has been busy, busy, busy this month, marking up a final version of the super snooper bill. Before long we will know exactly what Senators Javits of New York and Ribicoff of Connecticut are proposing in the way of new consumer legislation.

Kilpatrick

The general features of their little monster already are well known to professionals in the field. After all, this is the third year of the war. The two liberals have it in mind to weld together the strongest elements of their own 1970 bill with the strongest elements of the House bill approved last October. In this election year they envision a final product of irresistible appeal.

All this calculated to bring a smile to the dour face of Ralph Nader. The gentlemen's idea is to create a new Consumer Protection Agency with more teeth than a barracuda, and to let the creature swim at will among the many government offices now changed with keeping an eye on consumer interest.

The CPA of the liberals' bill would become a super agency, with almost unlimited powers to meddle in the public and private sectors.

The country needs such an outfit about as urgently as Florida needs an April freeze.

Consider a few specifics of S.1177, the Javits-Ribicoff bill. Among other things, the bill would empower the director of the CPA to intervene in any "matter or proceeding" that in his judgment "substantially affects the interest of consumers."

The wording is important. In the bureaucratic lexicon, a "proceeding" implies a formal hearing or investigation conducted with all the safeguards of the Administrative Procedures Act. If the authority of a new consumer agency were limited to intervention in such a proceeding, at least the ground rules would be clearer. But what is "a matter?" It could be anything. And in this day and age,

Merry-Go-Round

Discredit Anderson: White House Orders

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The White House, in its effort to discredit us and whitewash the International Telephone and Telegraph (ITT) scandal, is conducting a massive undercover campaign.

The manpower has been drawn from the White House, Justice Department, Republican National Committee and the Committee For the Re-election of the President.

Even the Justice Department's Internal Security Division (ISD), which is supposed to investigate spies and saboteurs, has been put on our trail.

Dozens of government gumshoes, presidential aides and political flunkies have been assigned to investigate us, to prepare attacks on us and to plant stories in the press against us.

ITT has also retained the world's most famous and formidable private investigating firm, Intertel, to assist with the investigation. This is the same outfit that broke Swiss bank secrecy and exposed Clifford Irving's phony autobiography of billionaire Howard Hughes.

Intertel submits its investigative reports to ITT, which has made them available to the White House. Presidential aides, in turn, have fed the material to Republican senators for use against us.

Here's the incredible, behind-the-scenes story:

At first, the strategy was to discredit Dita Beard, the salty-tongued ITT lobbyist, who wrote the incriminating memo suggesting there had been a link between the settlement of ITT's antitrust cases and a commitment from ITT to help finance the Republican convention.

Her physician, Dr. Victor L. Liska, conferred with Justice Department officials Harlington Wood, Jr., and John T. Duffner on the eve of his appearance at the Senate hearing. He testified that Mrs. Beard had told him she wrote the memo but was "mad and disturbed" at the time.

When this tack failed, the President's men tried to peddle the idea that we had conspired with Dita Beard to concoct the damaging memo. This was planted with Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., who rushed out with a statement questioning "the veracity of Anderson's account of how he obtained the memorandum and perhaps even on the origin and content of the memorandum itself."

One of the Justice Department's counterespies, John Martin, Internal Security's Analysis and Evaluation chief, tried to establish a link between Dita Beard and U.S. Intertel's president, Robert Pelouquin, and his chief gumshoe, Ed Mullin, also worked on this angle.

Their "evidence" was routed through the White House to Senator Cook. This, too backfired.

Then began the belated campaign to reverse the doctor's testimony and to persuade Mrs. Beard to change her story. An active and ardent California Republican, David W. Fleming, appeared as Mrs. Beard's attorney. He held a series of meetings with top Republicans and ITT officers in Washington, then issued a notarized statement signed by the poor woman claiming the memo was a forgery.

This latest "evidence," significantly, was released in Washington by Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott. Fleming also made statements to the press that sounded more as if he were representing the Nixon administration than Dita Beard.

Meanwhile, President Nixon's new deputy communications director, Ken W. Clawson, has been handling press strategy. He had advised Senator Cook and contacted newsmen in an attempt to promote stories against us.

Two other White House aides, Jonathan Rose and George Crawford, also slipped around to Sen. Norris Cotton's office with a draft speech for the New Hampshire Republican to deliver on the ITT affair. Senators Barry Goldwater and Paul Fannin, both Arizona Republicans, also delivered speeches that were prepared by the Republican National Committee.

It isn't often that we can report a heartwarming human story about the Army. But such is the case of Captain and Mrs. David Kelley and their four-year-old son, David, Jr.

Since age one, young David has had a form of cancer known as Wilm's tumor.

Until now, he has received excellent treatment at Walter Reed Army Hospital. But recently his father, presently stationed at Ft. Lee, Va., was notified he would have to leave the service because of personnel cuts.

The family could not afford continued medical treatment, so they petitioned the Army to permit David to continue receiving medical care from the military.

The Kelleys feel the Army is at least partially responsible for their son's condition. Mrs. Kelley was 10 weeks pregnant with David when she had an automobile accident. She was repeatedly X-rayed at an Army hospital and some doctors think the X-rays could have had something to do with David's disease.

The plucky youngster is now confined to a wheelchair, but he is beginning to walk again. Years of expensive treatment lie ahead, treatment that the Kelleys cannot afford once the father leaves the military.

Recently, acting secretary Kenneth Belieu ruled favorably on the Kelley's petition. It is good to be reminded once in a while that the Army has a heart.

Wichita Couple Leaving Old World

By FRANK GAROFALO
Wichita Beacon
For The Associated Press

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — For Dick and Marcia Alley, the next two years will be a dream come true.

And their dream — sailing a 36-foot cutter-sailboat to exotic places — could be shared by thousands who would love to flee the work-a-day world.

But Dr. Richard S. Alley, an oral surgeon, and his petite wife, Marcia, are doing it.

The Alleys have sold their home, his elaborate dental office and most of their possessions. And they have bought the sailboat, detailed travel plans for the next two years and on March 29 will leave their old world for a new one aboard the "Alano."

The boat is at anchor at St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands awaiting its new owners. When they step aboard, the adventure will foreshadow the sacrifice of more than 20 years of study and work.

"It's kind of an emotional shock," the 45-year-old doctor said, "when you realize you're giving up so much and leaving behind your family and so many good friends."

"But the adventure makes it worthwhile. It will make up for it. You can't take it with you and making a million dollars is not my idea of a life work."

For a couple who are native of land-locked Kansas, he from Augusta and she from El Dorado, the idea of sailing a boat across the Atlantic and into the Mediterranean and Caribbean for two years may seem incongruous.

The idea took root when the doctor served on a Navy submarine chaser in the Pacific during World War II. "I developed a love of the ocean," Alley said.

"I thought about some day retiring and sailing in the Mediterranean and Caribbean, where the weather and conditions are perfect for sailing. The last couple of years we found ourselves at the point in life where our two children are grown up and in college and found ourselves alone."

"We figured if we waited until I retired, I'd be too old to do it."

The Alleys had put their enthusiasm for sailing in practice for the past seven years, sailing small craft mostly at Santa Fe Lake and Cheney Lake.

In October, 1970, the Alleys bought the "Alano" from Fred and Joan Georgeson, former Californians who have been sailing about the world for several years.

With the Georgesons, the Alleys sailed the Virgin Islands for a week and "fell in love with it," Alley said.

He said he believes they saved enough by selling their home and office to finance two years of travel.

He added that purchase of the boat will be complete by the time they step aboard.

Mrs. Alley says she has no reservations about the adventure.

"It's a challenge," she said. "I'm all for it or I wouldn't be doing it. It's a wonderful hobby and something we've kind of dreamed about for a long time."

What about afterward? "I don't know what will happen then," she says. "We'll just kind of play it by ear."

Dr. Alley isn't concerned.

"I started out before and I can do it again. Making a living will be no problem. I'm not worried."

Dr. Alley added he has received two job offers with other firms and one offer to teach at a university after they return.

The Alleys and the Georgesons will sail from the Virgin Islands about April 15 for Bermuda. After a week's stay there, they will head for the Azores and England. The two women will sail the boat by day and the two men will sail at night.

The Alleys plan to spend the summer in England, joined by their 19-year-old daughter Lelia, a University of Kansas student who has been living and working in Italy this semester. Their son, Richard Jr., 21, will remain at home and enter KU this fall.

In September, the Alleys will sail alone down the coast of France to Portugal and the Mediterranean, where they will travel for a year and spend the second year sailing in the Caribbean.

Educator Resigns In Tipton

(Democrat-Capital Service)

TIPTON — O. W. Fox, superintendent of the Moniteau County R-VI School District, will resign effective July 1, it was reported here Wednesday. Fox has spent 43 years as an educator in Missouri public schools.

He graduated from Mendon,

Mo., High School and attended Central Missouri State College, where he earned his B.S. degree. He received his Masters from the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Under his administration, the Moniteau County R-VI school saw continued progress and expansion, including financial improvements, the construction of the Home Economics Department and the addition of an Industrial Arts section.

The school's curriculum has expanded from 37 to 51 units, giving students a choice of 34 elective above the 17 units required for graduation.

Fox has been active in both school and civic affairs, serving terms as president of the Lions Club, the Tipton Country Club and the Tri-County League.

He served a three-year term on the advisory board of Central Missouri State College and in 1966 and 1972 he was given special recognition by the Missouri Association of Administrators.

Fox said he and his family would continue to make their home here.

"During the past 11 years I have enjoyed the friendship and cooperation given to me and take this opportunity to express my gratitude. My wish is for continued educational progress in the Moniteau County R-VI Schools and success to my successor," he said in a prepared statement.

Nephew's Behavior May Show Problem

Dear Ann Landers: I am so furious I don't know what to do. I need your help. Last weekend we had a family reunion. The house was full of relatives and I was busy in the kitchen a good bit of the time.

A 17-year-old nephew seemed to be hanging around our five-year-old daughter. I didn't give it much thought until later in the day when they both were missing. I started to check the rooms. Well, I caught the boy "playing doctor" with our little girl. She had all of her clothes off and he was "examining her." I expressed my anger in unmistakable language. What burned me up more than anything was his casual attitude. "I was just messing around," he said. "What are you so excited about?"

He asked me to do him a favor and not mention the matter to his mother. So far I haven't said anything to anyone. My husband would thrash the boy within an inch of his life if he knew. I don't know what his own father would do. Am I making a mistake by keeping this to myself? Please give me some advice, Ann. I'm very upset. — St. Louis Dilemma

Dear Dilemma: When two little kids "play doctor" it's nothing to become alarmed about — but a 17-year-old boy is no little kid. You should do two things. First, explain to your little girl that her body is private and she should not allow anybody to take liberties with it. Instruct her to tell you at once if anyone tries. Second, tell the boy's mother what occurred. If he is making a practice of "messing around" with little girls his parents should take him for psychological testing and treatment if it is indicated.

Dear Ann Landers: How do you tell someone you love that a personality trait of his drives people up the wall? Jim is so slow in conversation that it takes tremendous self control to keep from shrieking. "For Lord's sake hurry up and get to the point!" You know what he is going to say long before he says it. Friends and relatives suffer in silence. Their discomfort is apparent to everyone but Jim.

Employers are not so compassionate. Jim just lost his seventh job in four years and he is very depressed. He has no concept of how he comes across to others, in spite of the hints. He considers himself methodical and blames the job losses on "people who are out to get him."

This trait is ruining our lives and I'm so worried I'm sick. I can't bear to hurt his pride by telling him he's so slow he irritates people beyond belief and that only friends and relatives will put up with it. — Sign Me Ill And Tired Because I'm Both

Dear Ill and Tired: For the love of heaven TELL HIM in plain language exactly what you have told me. Your silence is hurting him worse than anything you might say. Perhaps he cannot conquer the habit completely, but he should be told so he can go to work on it.

Dear Ann Landers: There are several girls in our family and we all have children under three years of age. Will you please settle something? Should we leave porcelain figurines, crystal ashtrays, and fragile knickknacks within reach of busy little hands and try to teach the children not to touch? Or is it better to put nice things away until the children are older? — P.A.M.M

Dear P.A.M.: When my own daughter was a toddler I never put anything out of her reach. I taught her not to touch them. Margo has trained her three children the same way. The only important loss I ever suffered was a crack in a Dorothy Doughty figurine — by a 55-year-old guest from Seattle.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet "Straight Dope On Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, (16 cents postage), to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Apathetic Response To League Meeting

For those present at the "Know Your Candidates" meeting Tuesday night at the courthouse, it was a depressing experience. Why so?

Here the Sedalia-Pettis County League of Women Voters arranged a public meeting between the voters and the four candidates for contested seats on the City Council. Only trouble was, no one bothered to show up.

After subtracting the candidates themselves, members of the League of Women Voters and newsmen, there were hardly any "voters" left. They could have caucused conveniently in a phone booth.

There is one word for what we saw Tuesday night.

Apathy.

Now granted that the April 4 election is not destined to go down as one of Sedalia's most exciting. Only two of the four city wards even boast a contest this year. Still, what candidates there are were there Tuesday night, prepared to state their positions and answer questions from the audience, and even grill one another if so moved.

It would have provided residents of the Third and Fourth Wards with an opportunity to size up the candidates and feel out their stands on various issues, and would have generally given them some facts before they enter the voting booths April 4.

Yet precious few cared enough to venture out on a fine spring evening to exercise this democratic right. The pull of Hawaii Five-O was evidently too powerful for many.

The League of Women Voters has performed a valuable service in setting up and conducting the "Know Your Candidates" meetings. But we wonder how much longer these will continue in the absence of public support.

Truman Dam Benefits

The primary purposes of the Truman Reservoir are flood control and hydro-electric generation. It will be very much a duplicate of the lake above which it is being built. Any determination of its effect on the environment may be calculated to a major degree by study of the Bagnell impoundment (Lake of the Ozarks). All wildlife native to this area have proliferated — some species to the point of becoming nuisances. The paddlefish, for instance, was a rarity in the free flowing, frequently rampaging, Osage River. Now we hear that we have the largest concentration in the United States.

There is no cause to believe that any form of wildlife could be endangered by being given extended range, improved food supply and habitation cover.

So much for the wildlife angle. Probably the most important and far reaching influence in the maintenance of environmental excellence for all life on earth is the absolutely pollution free generation of electricity, thereby slowing our consumption of fossil fuels (i.e. coal and petro fuels).

As a recreational facility the old Lake of the Ozarks had many shortcomings, the greatest of which was the fact that private ownership of the land extended to the water's edge. Access to the lake could be had by purchasing or renting, or paying facilities fees. Such is not to be the case in this instance. All lands bordering the lake are to be federally owned and supervised.

Campsite, sanitary facilities, boat launching facilities, etc., will be available at a minimum cost to the visitor. Hopefully, later there will be hiking and equestrian trails as well as untouched areas for nature studies. Fish hatcheries will be necessary and undoubtedly inviolable areas for the nesting of migratory waterfowl. Public hunting areas are in the realm of possibility. Hopefully there will be something for everyone in the master plan.

With regret we will see archaeological treasures, such as the shelters of possibly the first men to travel through here and the boggy areas where mastodon, giant sloth, muskox and other animal remains are found, inundated. Archaeological and paleontological teams are working as time and funding permit. We hope that most available knowledge will have been gleaned before the waters cover them.

Art Buchwald Shred Or Dead Is ITT Game

WASHINGTON — Among the many startling revelations that have come out of the International Telephone and Telegraph hearings is that ITT sent a team of security men down from New York to shred all of the memorandums in the company's Washington office.

Buchwald

ITT said this was absolutely necessary because Jack Anderson printed a confidential memo of lobbyist Dita Beard's (she has since denied writing it). The ITT people assured the Senate Judiciary Committee that they only destroyed "old memos" and "useless papers" and did not cut up anything that had to do with the hearings. They also said Dita Beard not only participated in the paper shredding but got so involved in it that she wanted to throw EVERYTHING away.

I can just imagine the scene as the security people bring in the paper shredder, which looks exactly like a wastepaper basket with blades on it.

"Well, Dita, we've come down from New York to destroy all your old memos and papers, but, of course, we have to be careful we do not destroy anything that could help the Senate investigation regarding our contribution to the Republican convention."

"Of course. Where shall we begin?"

"How about this program from the Kentucky Derby?"

"Oh boy, was that a Kentucky Derby! Did I ever tell you guys what I said to Atty. Gen. John Mitchell at Gov. Louis Nunn's house before I passed out on the floor?"

"We'd rather not hear about that, Dita."

"Well, I told him if his Justice Department didn't..."

"Dita, please. Can we get on with the shredding? Now, what about these folders on the San Diego Sheraton hotels?"

"I thought you wanted me to give them to the Republican National Committee to show them what they were getting for our noble $400,000 commitment."

"Dita, there is NO $400,000 commitment."

"Oh? Why didn't someone tell me, so I wouldn't have put it in my memo which Jack Anderson printed?"

"You didn't write a memo about the $400,000."

"Well, if I didn't write it, why are you shredding it?"

"We're just trying to clean out our files, Dita. It's company policy to do this every two years. Now what about this autographed photo of Peter Flanagan from the White House?"

"You're not going to shred that, are you?"

"We have a saying at ITT headquarters, Dita — 'Better shred than dead.'"

"Why are you shredding my Hartford Fire Insurance policy?"

"It's been canceled. We don't want anyone to think that one of our lobbyists had any connection with Hartford Fire Insurance. But since we own the Grinnell Fire Sprinkler Co., too, we'll install new sprinklers in your house."

"Bless you. I knew ITT had a heart. What are you doing with that book?"

"We don't believe you need 'Six Crises' by Richard Nixon any more, Dita. Someone might think the President was involved in our antitrust settlement."

"Well, can I keep 'The Richard Kleindienst Cookbook'?"

"Dita, you know better than that. I think we better shred this, too."

"You're not going to shred my Avis car, are you?"

"Headquarters thinks it's best that we do. There is no telling what Jack Anderson could find in the glove compartment."

A Conservative View

The 'Super Snooper Bill' Is Coming

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — A Senate subcommittee has been busy, busy, busy this month, marking up a final version of the super snooper bill. Before long we will know exactly what Senators Javits of New York and Ribicoff of Connecticut are proposing in the way of new consumer legislation.

Kilpatrick

The general features of their little monster already are well known to professionals in the field. After all, this is the third year of the war. The two liberals have it in mind to weld together the strongest elements of their own 1970 bill with the strongest elements of the House bill approved last October. In this election year they envision a final product of irresistible appeal.

All this calculated to bring a smile to the dour face of Ralph Nader. The gentlemen's idea is to create a new Consumer Protection Agency with more teeth than a barracuda, and to let the creature swim at will among the many government offices now changed with keeping an eye on consumer interest.

The CPA of the liberals' bill would become a super agency, with almost unlimited powers to meddle in the public and private sectors.

The country needs such an outfit about as urgently as Florida needs an April freeze.

Consider a few specifics of S.1177, the Javits-Ribicoff bill. Among other things, the bill would empower the director of the CPA to intervene in any "matter or proceeding" that in his judgment "substantially affects the interest of consumers."

The wording is important. In the bureaucratic lexicon, a "proceeding" implies a formal hearing or investigation conducted with all the safeguards of the Administrative Procedures Act. If the authority of a new consumer agency were limited to intervention in such a proceeding, at least the ground rules would be clearer. But what is "a matter?" It could be anything. And in this day and age,

Merry-Go-Round

Discredit Anderson: White House Orders

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The White House, in its effort to discredit us and whitewash the International Telephone and Telegraph (ITT) scandal, is conducting a massive undercover campaign.

The manpower has been drawn from the White House, Justice Department, Republican National Committee and the Committee For the Re-election of the President.

Even the Justice Department's Internal Security Division (ISD), which is supposed to investigate spies and saboteurs, has been put on our trail.

Dozens of government gumshoes, presidential aides and political flunkies have been assigned to investigate us, to prepare attacks on us and to plant stories in the press against us.

ITT has also retained the world's most famous and formidable private investigating firm, Intertel, to assist with the investigation. This is the same outfit that broke Swiss bank secrecy and exposed Clifford Irving's phony autobiography of billionaire Howard Hughes.

Intertel submits its investigative reports to ITT, which has made them available to the White House. Presidential aides, in turn, have fed the material to Republican senators for use against us.

Here's the incredible, behind-the-scenes story:

At first, the strategy was to discredit Dita Beard, the salty-tongued ITT lobbyist, who wrote the incriminating memo suggesting there had been a link between the settlement of ITT's antitrust cases and a commitment from ITT to help finance the Republican convention.

Her physician, Dr. Victor L. Liszka, conferred with Justice Department officials Harlington Wood, Jr., and John T. Duffner on the eve of his appearance at the Senate hearing. He testified that Mrs. Beard had told him she wrote the memo but was "mad and disturbed" at the time.

When this tack failed, the President's men tried to peddle the idea that we had conspired with Dita Beard to concoct the damaging memo. This was planted with Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., who rushed out with a statement questioning "the veracity of Anderson's account of how he obtained the memorandum and perhaps even on the origin and content of the memorandum itself."

One of the Justice Department's counterespies, John Martin, Internal Security's Analysis and Evaluation chief, tried to establish a link between Dita Beard and U.S. Intertel's president, Robert Pelouquin, and his chief gumshoe, Ed Mullin, also worked on this angle.

Their "evidence" was routed through the White House to Senator Cook. This, too, backfired.

Then began the belated campaign to reverse the doctor's testimony and to persuade Mrs. Beard to change her story. An active and ardent California Republican, David W. Fleming, appeared as Mrs. Beard's attorney. He held a series of meetings with top Republicans and ITT officers in Washington, then issued a notarized statement signed by the poor woman claiming the memo was a forgery.

This latest "evidence," significantly, was released in Washington by Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott. Fleming also made statements to the press that sounded more as if he were representing the Nixon administration than Dita Beard.

Meanwhile, President Nixon's new deputy communications director, Ken W. Clawson, has been handling press strategy. He had advised Senator Cook and contacted newsmen in an attempt to promote stories against us.

Two other White House aides, Jonathan Rose and George Crawford, also slipped around to Sen. Norris Cotton's office with a draft speech for the New Hampshire Republican to deliver on the ITT affair. Senators Barry Goldwater and Paul Fannin, both Arizona Republicans, also delivered speeches that were prepared by the Republican National Committee.

Dr. Alley added he has received two job offers with other firms and one offer to teach at a university after they return.

The Alleys and the Georgesons will sail from the Virgin Islands about April 15 for Bermuda. After a week's stay there, they will head for the Azores and England. The two women will sail the boat by day and the two men will sail at night.

The Alleys plan to spend the summer in England, joined by their 19-year-old daughter Lucia, a University of Kansas student who has been living and working in Italy this semester. Their son, Richard Jr., 21, will remain at home and enter KU this fall.

In September, the Alleys will sail alone down the coast of France to Portugal and the Mediterranean, where they will travel for a year and spend the second year sailing in the Caribbean.

Educator Resigns In Tipton

(Democrat-Capital Service)

TIPTON — O. W. Fox, superintendent of the Moniteau County R-VI School District, will resign effective July 1, it was reported here Wednesday. Fox has spent 43 years as an educator in Missouri public schools.

He graduated from Mendon,

Mo., High School and attended Central Missouri State College, where he earned his B.S. degree. He received his Masters from the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Under his administration, the Moniteau County R-VI school saw continued progress and expansion, including financial improvements, the construction of the Home Economics Department and the addition of an Industrial Arts section.

The school's curriculum has expanded from 37 to 51 units, giving students a choice of 34 elective above the 17 units required for graduation.

Fox has been active in both school and civic affairs, serving terms as president of the Lions Club, the Tipton Country Club and the Tri-County League.

He served a three-year term on the advisory board of Central Missouri State College and in 1966 and 1972 he was given special recognition by the Missouri Association of Administrators.

Fox said he and his family would continue to make their home here.

"During the past 11 years I have enjoyed the friendship and cooperation given to me and take this opportunity to express my gratitude. My wish is for continued educational progress in the Moniteau County R-VI Schools and success to my successor," he said in a prepared statement.

Ann Landers

Nephew's Behavior May Show Problem

Dear Ann Landers: I am so furious I don't know what to do. I need your help. Last weekend we had a family reunion. The house was full of relatives and I was busy in the kitchen a good bit of the time.

A 17-year-old nephew seemed to be hanging around our five-year-old daughter. I didn't give it much thought until later in the day when they both were missing. I started to check the rooms. Well, I caught the boy "playing doctor" with our little girl. She had all of her clothes off and he was "examining her." I expressed my anger in unmistakable language. What burned me up more than anything was his casual attitude. "I was just messing around," he said. "What are you so excited about?"

He asked me to do him a favor and not mention the matter to his mother. So far I haven't said anything to anyone. My husband would thrash the boy within an inch of his life if he knew. I don't know what his own father would do. Am I making a mistake by keeping this to myself? Please give me some advice, Ann. I'm very upset. — St. Louis Dilemma

Dear Dilemma: When two little kids "play doctor" it's nothing to become alarmed about — but a 17-year-old boy is no little kid. You should do two things. First, explain to your little girl that her body is private and she should not allow anybody to take liberties with it. Instruct her to tell you at once if anyone tries. Second, tell the boy's mother what occurred. If he is making a practice of "messing around" with little girls his parents should take him for psychological testing and treatment if it is indicated.

Dear Ann Landers: How do you tell someone you love that a personality trait of his drives people up the wall? Jim is so slow in conversation that it takes tremendous self control to keep from shrieking. "For Lord's sake hurry up and get to the point!" You know what he is going to say long before he

Senate Roll Call On One-Term Vote

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Here is the Senate roll call Wednesday sending to the House a constitutional amendment going back to the old one-term rule for governors:

For—Avery, Blackwell, Gant, Johnson, Joynt, Keating, Lee, Linehan, Merrell, Noland, Owens, Patterson, Pentland, Skelton, Tinnin, Waters, Webster, Wilson, Young. Total 19.

Against—Bradshaw, Brancato, Cason, Cox, Esely, Howard, Jones of St. Louis County, Jones of Kansas City, Manford, Payne, Schechter, Schneider, Spradling, Vanlandingham. Total 14.

Senate Roll Call On Judge Salary

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Here is the Senate roll call Wednesday on increasing the pay of major judges by $10,000 a year:

For—Avery, Blackwell, Bradshaw, Brancato, Cason, Esely, Gant, Jones of St. Louis County, Jones of Kansas City, Joynt, Keating, Lee, Linehan, Manford, Payne, Pentland, Schechter, Skelton, Spradling, Tinnin, Webster, Young. Total 22.

says it. Friends and relatives suffer in silence. Their discomfort is apparent to everyone but Jim.

Employers are not so compassionate. Jim just lost his seventh job in four years and he is very depressed. He has no concept of how he comes across to others, in spite of the hints. He considers himself methodical and blames the job losses on "people who are out to get him."

This trait is ruining our lives and I'm so worried I'm sick. I can't bear to hurt his pride by telling him he's so slow he irritates people beyond belief and that only friends and relatives will put up with it. — Sign Me Ill And Tired Because I'm Both

Dear Ill and Tired: For the love of heaven TELL HIM in plain language exactly what you have told me. Your silence is hurting him worse than anything you might say. Perhaps he cannot conquer the habit completely, but he should be told so he can go to work on it.

Dear Ann Landers: There are several girls in our family and we all have children under three years of age. Will you please settle something? Should we leave porcelain figurines, crystal ashtrays, and fragile knickknacks within reach of busy little hands and try to teach the children not to touch? Or is it better to put nice things away until the children are older? — P.A.M.M

Dear P.A.M.: When my own daughter was a toddler I never put anything out of her reach. I taught her not to touch them. Margo has trained her three children the same way. The only important loss I ever suffered was a crack in a Dorothy Doughty figurine — by a 55-year-old guest from Seattle.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet "Straight Dope On Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (16 cents postage), to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Morris Addresses School at Columbia

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — "The challenge of our (legal) profession today is . . . and must be a real concern for justice for all in its broadest sense — the abolition of injustice," Lt. Gov. William S. Morris said Wednesday.

In a speech prepared for the students and faculty of the University of Missouri school of law, Morris spoke of law and order and said:

"More guards and thicker walls are not the only answer to Attica. More police and more Mace are not the only answers to riots in the streets. Penalties and punishment are not necessarily the answer to campus strife. Closing schools and taxpayer revolts are not the answer to unjust taxes and inefficient methods of collection."

He said Missouri must have a public defender system and he suggested consideration of having group legal services just as many Missourians have group insurance.

He said he didn't have the answers to these problems but they can't be solved until they are recognized.

Rod Cable Awarded Second Cage Letter

FAYETTE, Mo. — Rodney Cable, a 6-2 junior from Versailles, has earned his second basketball letter at Central Methodist College, here.

Cable, who lettered as a sophomore for the Eagles last season, is also one of the co-captains on the squad.

State Fair Community College committed nine errors in the opening game of a doubleheader with Southwest Baptist College of Bolivar here Wednesday and were held hitless in the second game on the combined efforts of Stan Seawel and Steve Nicholson, as the Bearcats handed the Roadrunners 10-1 and 7-2 setbacks.

Marty Garrison, the starting and winning pitcher for SWBC in the opener, struck out 12 State Fair batters and took command with his bat, pounding out a double and a home run over the center field fence in Liberty Park Stadium, as the Bearcats moved their season's mark to 5-3 with the doubleheader victory.

Relief pitcher Mike Young came in for Garrison in the sixth and struck out four more Roadrunner batters.

Garrison scattered four hits during his five innings of mound duty. He yielded the only run of the contest in the third, when right fielder Brent Yates hit into a fielders choice that scored catcher Mitch Silvers from third.

With Southwest leading 2-1 as SWBC came to bat in the top of the fifth, the Bearcats erupted for four runs in both the fifth and sixth innings.

But Roadrunner errors paved the way for victory in the SFCC inaugural. They made four miscues in the fifth and two more in the sixth, while SWBC collected only three hits in the two frames.

Starter Randy Kidwell was tagged with the loss, although he was nicked for only four hits through his five and one-third innings of work.

Freshman shortstop Steve Holmes was charged with five errors; Yates had a pair as well.

State Fair, even though they were held hitless in the second game of the twinbill, got on the board first in the opening frame.

Seawel walked the bases loaded in facing the top of the Roadrunners' order. He then struck out centerfielder Mike Robertson, who had collected two of the four SFCC hits in the opener.

Mitch Silvers hit a grounder to shortstop George Williams, who threw wide of the plate trying to force out Brent Yates. Yates scored on the error as did Gary Townsend, who was at second.

But that was the extent of the Roadrunners' damage, as SWBC tied the game in the second, added one more in the third and iced the contest with four runs in the fourth.

Three errors were chalked against State Fair in the second game, to go along with the nine miscues in the opener.

Starter Jim Coffelt, who was relieved in the sixth by Larry Newbill, was the losing pitcher.

Coffelt yielded 11 hits in being charged with the loss.

Coach Foster McGuire will try to regroup his charges for Friday afternoon's doubleheader with Indian Hills Community College of Centerville, Iowa.

The opening game is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. in Liberty Park Stadium.

NFL Is Looking At Rule Changes

HONOLULU (AP) — The National Football League will tackle the problem of rule change proposals today—and one of the people sitting on the edge of his chair is a guy who just recently was spinning on the rim of the moon as the pilot of the Apollo 12 command module.

Despite the fact that he's back on earth now as executive vice president of the New Orleans Saints, Dick Gordon feels he has a different perspective than many of the National Football League executives who are concerned with the possibility that defense has gained the edge over offense.

"I can reflect on some of these rule proposals differently than others in the game—some of them are so close it's like the guy who can't see the forest for the trees," Gordon explained.

As a fan he finds a certain intrigue in the rules. He's studied many of the proposed changes. He's not so sure that the offense needs help.

"People say the defense is so dominant, and maybe defenses have become better," Gordon said. "But maybe the best way to combat that is by offensive innovation. The only fact we have to work with is that there have been less points scored. I question the conclusions drawn from that. Maybe there are other reasons."

It should be noted, however, that Commissioner Pete Rozelle said at the meetings began that he considered the dropoff in scoring one of the "trouble spots" facing the sport and preferred to "stop a trend before it becomes dangerous."

There seems to be significant sentiment for change of some kind to redress the shift that has taken place during the last three years with 100 fewer touchdowns scored last season than in 1969.

In the weeks prior to the meetings, a number of proposals have been advanced. But the competition committee has declined to even let anyone peak at what its recommendations will be. However, it would appear that several proposals might be given strong consideration. They include:

—Permitting offensive motion behind the line of scrimmage in any direction, including forward. That would, for example, enable a running back coming out for a pass to break across the line of scrimmage just at the snap, giving him a step or two advantage he does not now have.

—Giving offensive players more room to escape today's cat-quick defenders by some method that would serve the purpose of widening the field. One proposal suggests moving the hash marks to the middle of the field or closer to the middle than they are now.

—Making it mandatory for defensive linemen to maintain their position once they have assumed their three-point stance. That would enable offenses, which now often try to counter defensive movement, to initiate the movement and put the defense in a position of having to respond.

Escapes Injury

Bart Starr, quarterback of the Green Bay Packers, escaped without injury Wednesday when a light play he was in crashed while landing at the Scottsboro, Ala. airport. Airport manager Bill Matthews said the twin-engine Piper Comanche, piloted by Rod Teovy of Huntsville, Ala., was on a landing approach, when it was caught by a gust of wind and crashed into a hanger. On Honorable Mention List

All-America Status for Jim Lassiter

State Fair Community College's Jim Lassiter, a 6-3 forward from Freedom, Pa., who scored 798 points this past season and shattered every scoring record in the school's short, four-year history, has been named to the National Junior College Athletic Association's All-American honorable mention list.

The announcement was made by George Killian, executive director of the NJCAA, Wednesday.

Lassiter, a freshman who averaged 21.5 points per game during the Roadrunners 37 contests this past season, was one of the instrumental factors in SFCC's Region XVI (state) championship.

In competing in the NJCAA's national finals last week in Hutchinson, Kan., Lassiter tossed in 29 points against Casper, Wyo., and 25 against Dalton, Ga., for a sparkling 27.0 average in the two State Fair losses.

Lassiter was joined on the honorable mention list by Mineral Area College's (Flat River, Mo.) Larry Jenkins. They were the only two from Region XVI to be named.

In scoring his 798 points, Lassiter broke both the season and the career scoring records at State Fair by a wide margin.

John Nelson set the old record for most points in a season (314) in the 1969-70 campaign. The former mark for most points in a career was held by Gene Vimsatt (530), set between 1969-71.

Playing in only the second college game of his career, Lassiter poured in 34 points against Missouri Western College on Nov. 19 in the Highland, Kan., Tournament, to set the single-game scoring record. That broke a record set by David Bratcher in 1969 against Kansas City Metropolitan Junior College (now known as Penn Valley). Lassiter attempted 18 free throws against Moberly Junior College, Nov. 30, 1971, which is another record.

In that game, he also attempted 28 field goals, yet another record.

The 326 field goals and 146 free throws he tallied were also records.

Lassiter shares three other records. Those are: Most field goals scored in a game (14), most assists in a game (9) and most free throws made in a game (11).

State Fair Community College right fielder Brent Yates (2) has to slide back to first base head first in the opening inning of Wednesday's second game of the Roadrunners' doubleheader with Southwest Baptist College, to avert being tagged by Bill Scroggins. Yates came on in to score SFCC's first run of the game. However, State Fair lost both ends of the twinbill, 10-1 and 7-2.

Sebring Beckons

Huge, Fast Field Gathers for Race

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — A horde of race cars answered the roll call today as practice and qualifying opened for the 12-hour Grand Prix of Endurance, this country's oldest and longest motoring event.

Two days of time trials will set a field of between 60 and 70 starters for Saturday's 11 a.m. flagoff. It should be the fastest line-up in Sebring's 22-year history.

The old racing circuit, in use for perhaps the last time, is made up of 5.2 miles of battered concrete airport runways, a sphalt roadways, hairpin turns, chicanes and "esses." It had been given its once-a-year grooming weeks ago.

But despite the dust and signs of age, an accumulation since World War II, the circuit's speed records were expected to survive only as long as it took to warm up some of the race cars.

The absolute lap record of 2 minutes, 31.65 seconds was set last year by Mark Donohue in a Ferrari 512M. The speed was 123.440 m.p.h.

Neither Donohue nor the British five-liter Ferrari were present for the first roll call. The five-liter cars were outlawed by a 1972 rules change by the Federation Internationale de Automobile (FIA) that lowered engine limits for sports-prototypes by three liters.

Also absent was Swiss driver Jo Siffert, whose Porsche 917K set the fastest lap during last year's race, 124.418 m.p.h. Siffert was killed in a racing crash last summer.

Present, however, were three flame red Ferraris, four Alfa

Romeos, a Lola-Ford and a radically designed new Gulf Mirage, all of which meet the FIA's three-liter formula.

Mario Andretti already had proved that the Ferraris were capable of bettering not only the absolute record but the one of 2:32.47 he set for the three-liter cars last year.

The versatile star of Nazareth, Pa., whipped around the circuit in 2:29.6 for a speed of 125.310 m.p.h. in tests 10 days ago.

In all, the entry list for Saturday's guaranteed $30,000 purse includes about a dozen of the powerful three-liter cars, and at least 70 special and grand touring cars, sedans and club racers.

S-C Tigers Drop

First Golf Match

Smith-Cotton lost their opening golf match of the season Wednesday to Marshall, 331-355.

The Tigers were also defeated in the junior varsity match, 350-398.

Medalist honors in the varsity competition was Marshall's Gene Mach, who fired an 80 on the Walnut Hills Country Club Course.

Glen Kirkpatrick's 83 was the top Tiger score.

Results (Varsity)

Marshall (331) — Hayob 85, Harris 81, Mason 85, Mach 80.

Orioles Show Power Punch

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles finally got their bats booming against the Pittsburgh Pirates—about five months too late.

The Orioles, held in check by Pirate hurlers Steve Blass, Bruce Kison and Nelson Briles in the 1971 World Series, erupted for 10 runs and 14 hits and whipped the Pirates 10-5 Wednesday in exhibition baseball.

In other games, Los Angeles beat Cincinnati 5-3, Philadelphia edged St. Louis 8-7, the New York Mets defeated the New York Yankees 3-0, Detroit shut out the New York Mets' B team 7-0, Montreal beat Atlanta 7-4 and Boston outscored Houston 11-7.

Also, the Chicago White Sox defeated Minnesota 7-5, Cleveland edged the Chicago Cubs 4-3, Milwaukee stopped San Francisco 7-3, Kansas City nipped Texas 4-3 and Oakland blanked California 6-0.

Nelson Briles, who hurled a two-hit shutout against the Orioles in the fifth game of the World Series, was the chief victim of the Baltimore outburst. He pitched five innings and was tagged for nine of the Baltimore runs.

Big Boog Powell, who managed only three hits—and no extra base hits—in the Series, slugged two home runs for the Orioles, and Don Buford added another. For Pittsburgh, Willie Stargell, the major league home run leader last season, slugged his first of the spring in the second inning off Mike Cuellar.

Frank Robinson, traded away by Cincinnati six years ago, drove in two runs with a homer, and a double as the Dodgers defeated the Reds. Home runs by Don Money and Deron Johnson helped Philadelphia overcome a 7-2 deficit and defeat the Cards.

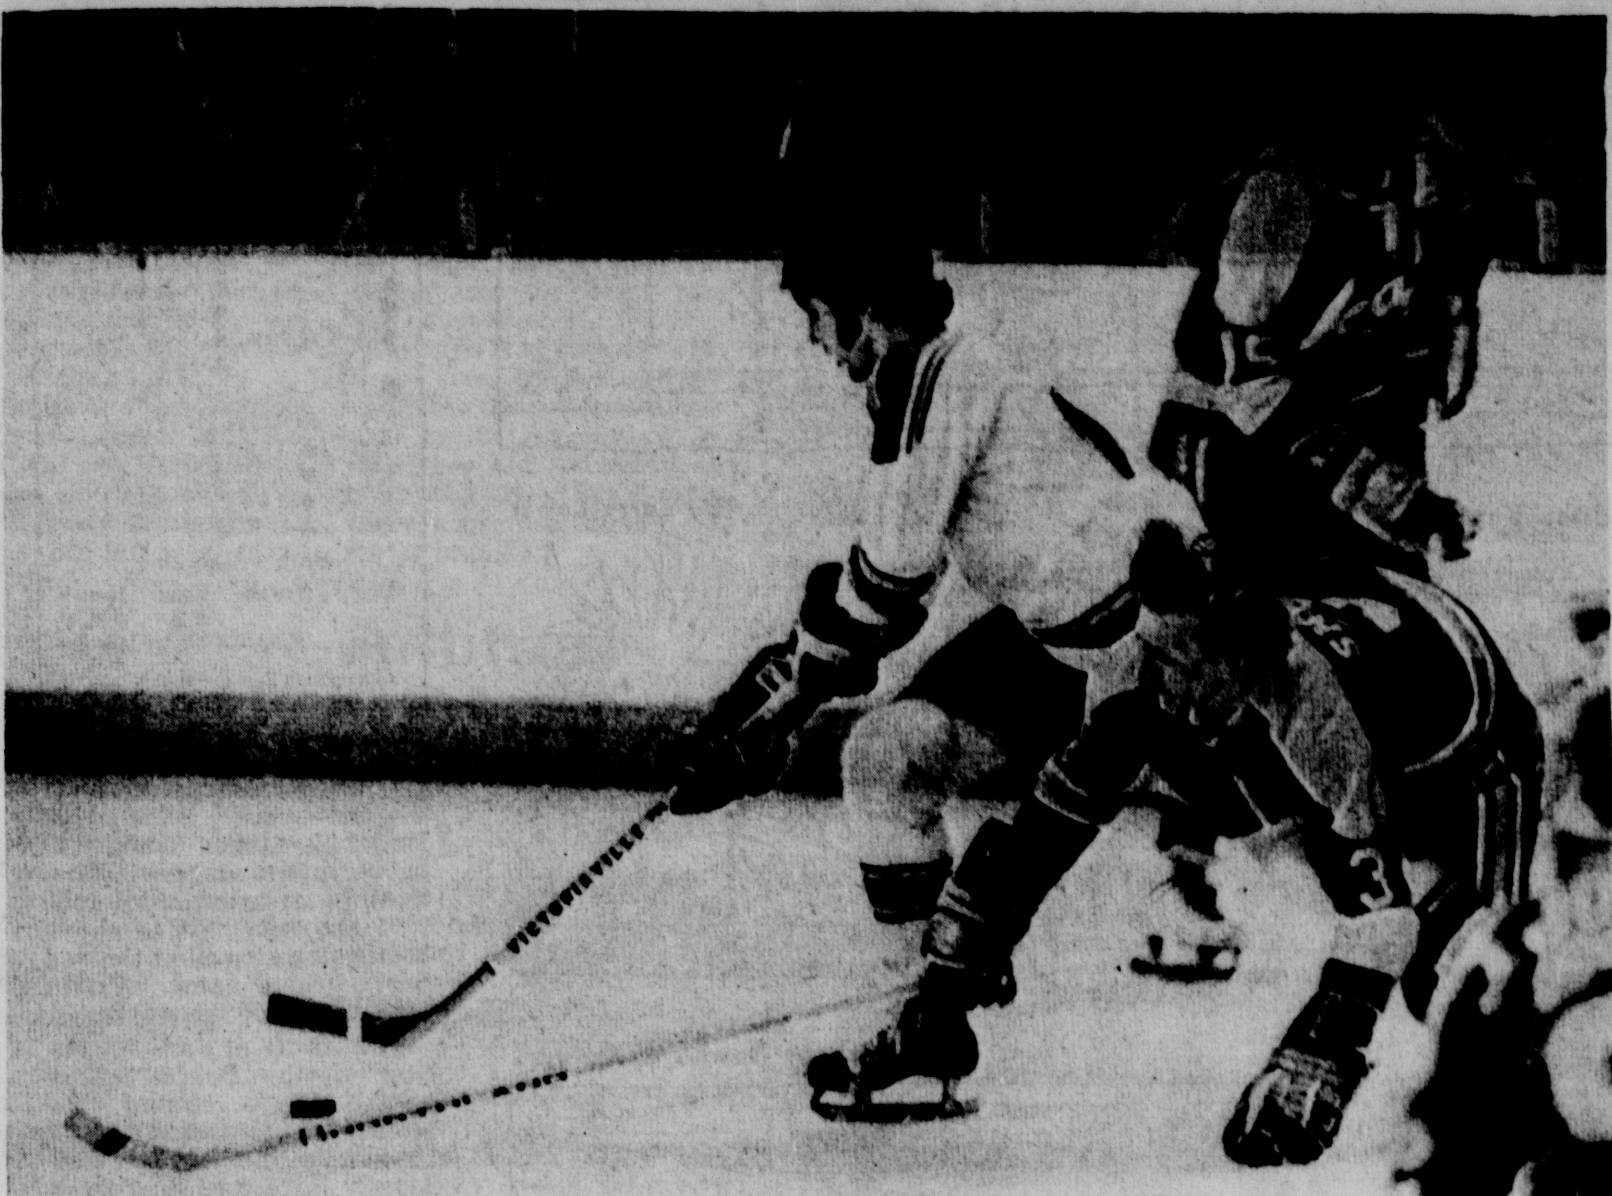

Jim McAndrew and Tug McGraw combined to shut the Yankees out on five hits, while Mickey Lolich gave up only one hit in five innings as the Tigers blanked the Mets B team.

Montreal rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to defeat Atlanta 7-4. Rookie Dwight Evans cracked four hits and Boston collected 15 hits off Astro pitchers in their free-scoring affair. Jorge Orta and Walt Williams drove in three runs apiece to lead the White Sox past Minnesota.

Del Unser's two-out, ninth-inning triple lifted Cleveland past the Cubs, while Milwaukee rallied for five runs in the seventh inning—three of them coming on Darrell Porter's homer—to beat the Giants.

Lou Piniella drove in the winning run for Kansas City with a two-out, seventh inning double, and Jim "Catfish" Hunter team with John "Blue Moon" Odom to shut out California on seven hits for Oakland.

Off the field, the Yankees and Red Sox made a trade which had been rumored for five months. New York sent veteran Danny Cater to the Red Sox, who are looking for a first baseman, in exchange for Sparky Lyle.

Roberto Gets Control

California Golden Seals' Paul Shymr (3) falls over the leg of St. Louis Blues' Phil Roberto, as Roberto gains control of the puck, during the first period of the St. Louis-California game, Wednesday night in St. Louis.

Gerry Pinder (15) watches the action. The Blues won the game, 4-1, and inched closer to their fifth straight Stanley Cup Playoff.

Owners Take Firmer Stand

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The stage was set today for a showdown between baseball's club owners and players over a possible strike before the season gets underway.

The owners, reacting to a series of near-unanimous strike votes by the players over their pension plan negotiations, came back with a show of force of their own Wednesday, voting not to add any money to their previous offer.

Gussie Busch, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, articulated the tough position taken by the brass, saying: "We voted unanimously to take a stand. We're not going to give another cent. And if they want to strike," said Busch, "let them strike."

That sent John Gaherin, the owners' representative in these negotiations, back to the bargaining table with Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, carrying no better offer than the one that has precipitated the series of strike votes in major league training camps this spring.

The two negotiators were scheduled to meet in Arizona Friday.

The key issue is the pension agreement which expires March 31. The players are seeking increases to match the 17 per cent cost of living increase during the past three years. The owners, who have already agreed to pay increased medical and dental costs, have balked over any pension increase.

Something New

Padres Emphasize Speed

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — Speed! That's what the San Diego Padres are talking about this year.

They hope they've added enough, without sacrificing too much pitching, to scramble out of the National League West cellar for the first time since they joined the major leagues nearly four years ago.

"Speed will help us both offensively and defensively," says E. J. "Buzzie" Bavasi, Padre president and co-owner. "If we had scored exactly four runs in every game last year, we would have won 89 games. Instead, we won 61"—and lost 100.

Similar sentiments come from Preston Gomez, manager of the Padres through all three of their losing years.

"This is the first year we have had the kind of speed to score without hitting the ball out of the infield," he says.

That means they won't have to play for the one big inning as in years past, the Cuban-born manager adds hopefully.

The Padres hope this speed—from newcomers Derrel Thomas and John Jeter, and 1971 regulars Enzo Hernandez and Dave Campbell—will be the ingredient which has been missing in past seasons. In 1970 they hit 172 home runs and last year they were third in the league in pitching—but they again finished last.

Thomas, 21, is likely to be the Padres' starting second baseman while Bill Grief, also 21, who came in the same deal from Houston, is battling for one of the starting spots in the pitching rotation.

Clay Kirby, a right-hander with a 15-13 record and 2.93 ERA last season, and first baseman Nate Colbert, 89 home runs in three seasons at San Diego, are the Padres' mainstays.

Kirby, who had a one-hitter against San Francisco last season, has one starting spot, and Steve Arlin and Fred Norman have two others. That leaves Greif, Tom Phoebus, Ed Acosta, Dick Kelley and Mike Corkins vying for the remaining starters' jobs. Al Severinsen will be on call in the bullpen.

Two players acquired during the 1971 season, center fielder Jeter and third baseman Garry Jestadt, are counted upon to produce for a full season. Jeter, who stole 36 bases and hit .324 in the International League, finished up swatting .320 in 75 at-bats with San Diego. Jestadt hit over .291 and gave what Gomez called the best third base defense in the team's history.

Piniella's Double Guides Royals, 4-3

POMPANNO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Lou Piniella doubled in Paul Schaaf with two out in the seventh inning to give the Kansas City Royals a 4-3 victory over the Texas Rangers in exhibition baseball Wednesday.

Amos Otis cracked a two-run homer to highlight the Royals three-run rally in the fifth.

Ted Kubiak and Jim Mason belted homers for the Rangers.

Drop Seals, 4-1

St. Louis Blues Near Fifth Straight Playoff

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A couple of perfect passes and a goal from a faceoff have all but carried the struggling St. Louis Blues to their fifth straight Stanley Cup playoff.

At least that's the opinion of coach Vic Stasiuk, whose California Golden Seals bowed 4-1 Wednesday night to too much Blues firepower in the National Hockey League West.

The Blues' victory, their fourth in seven games against one setback and two ties, cemented their hold on third place in the West Division with time running out.

With five games remaining, St. Louis is three points ahead of California, which has one less game to play.

Five points back are Pittsburgh, which also has five games left, and Philadelphia, which has seven to play.

"Somebody might catch them," Stasiuk reflected on the Blues' position, "but no one's going to knock them out of the playoffs. This one tonight really put them in good shape."

Blues coach Al Arbour only partially concurred, acknowledging "the club is playing very well" but adding "we're not taking anything for granted."

Arbour's club, moving one game over .500 in its performance since he took over Christmas, mesmerized California with a three-goal middle period and coasted to the finish.

Name Travis Grant Player-of-the-Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Just as easily as he pops in his jump shots Travis Grant of Kentucky State won the honor today of being named the college division basketball Player of the Year by The Associated Press.

The Machine, as the 6-foot-8 senior is nicknamed, won in a landslide in the voting by sportswriters and broadcasters, such players as Frank Schade of Eau Claire, Jim Tedesco of Union, N.Y., Willie Stoudamire of Portland State, Hal Johnston of Roanoke and Dick Authier of South Dakota were far behind.

Being named player of the year followed Grant's selection to the 1972 Little All-American team which was announced Wednesday.

Grant led the Kentucky State Thorobreds to their third straight NAIA championship at Kansas City last week and was named the tourney's most valuable player for the second straight year.

He scored a record 213 points during the tourney and became the first player to cross the 4,000-point plateau in a four-year career. He finished with a career 4,045 points. The previous four-year career high was 3,759 points by Bob Hopkins of Grambling, 1953 through 1956.

Grant's achievements include 75 points in one game as a sophomore and a 68-point production this season against Eastern Michigan during which he made 18 straight shots from the field.

Hal Johnston, who sparked unheralded Roanoke to the NCAA championship at Evansville last week, was picked for the Little All-American along with Mike Ratliff, of Eau Claire, Len Paul of Akron and Lloyd Neal of Tennessee State.

Bill Allen Leads

Key Tournament

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Bill Allen, 37-year-old southpaw from Orlando, Fla., held a 70-pin lead today in the $70,000 Andy Granatelli Bowling Classic after the first two rounds.

Allen, who returned to the tour after a layoff of more than one year, Wednesday rolled an initial six-game block of 1406 and a second block of 1358 for a total of 2764.

Rich Bennett of Owego, N.Y. was second with 2694, followed by Don Russell of Miami, Fla., at 2676. Butch Gearhart of Houston, Tex., 2656 and Tim Harahan of Canoga Park, Calif., at 2652.

Gearhart, who has four Professional Bowlers Association titles, rolled a perfect 300 in his first six-game series.

The 160-man field will shoot its final six game qualifying round this afternoon and the top 24 then will start match play.

"Curiouser and curiouser," thought Alice. "The Mad Hatter is rather mad. Will he be mad enough to stand by three no-trump if I double it? Anyway, things have been going so well at this party bridge game I might as well try for the works."

The dormouse, sitting North, looked mildly awake for a second, but settled back. He wasn't going to rescue the Hatter. The March Hare had no reason to disturb the double and as for the Hatter his only problem was whether or not to redouble.

Alice played her ace of diamonds. When dummy showed up with two cards in the suit Alice had no worries. She ran off her eight tricks, stopping only to wait for the March Hare and the Hatter to find discards.

The March Hare had no problems. His first discard was the eight of spades. Then he shed all his clubs and hearts and then a second spade.

The Hatter's first four discards were painful but forced. He had to throw two high hearts and two high clubs. His fifth discard was even more painful because he had been caught in a progressive squeeze. He did throw the ace of hearts whereupon Alice cashed her jack and squeezed the Hatter once more. He wound up taking no tricks at all.

FUNNY BUSINESS

By Roger Bollen

Pay Board Determined To Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board remained in business today, determined to continue in one form or another despite the walkout of three labor members.

"I think it very likely that the Pay Board will go on, but how and in what manner remains to be seen," Chairman George H. Boldt said. "There's more than one way to skin a cat."

The board planned tentatively to continue work today on proposals to drop wage controls from small firms and to give some further relief to low-wage earners. The absence of three labor votes decreased the likelihood that any such proposals would be adopted. In any event they would require approval of the Council of Living Council.

Meanwhile, the White House faced a decision on whether to allow the board to continue in its suddenly lopsided condition, or to reshape it in some way.

A number of options appear open. Balance could be restored by adding three more union or nonunion representatives of labor or by paring away three public and three business members.

Also, the board could be reconstituted entirely of public members, as is the Price Commission. Before Wednesday's resignations, the board comprised five members, each from labor, business and the public.

Another alternative would be to do nothing. With three labor votes gone, the board's decisions could become more conservative and the administration could point to the absent union chiefs as the reason.

"If I were the President," one nonunion board member said, "I'd wait until the dust settles before doing anything." After today's meeting, the board plans a two-week Easter recess. Although it was scheduled long before AFL-CIO President George Meany and two AFL-CIO colleagues resigned Wednesday, the break will serve to give the administration some breathing space. White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the board will not be disbanded, but also didn't comment on what its future form might be. Meanwhile the board should have little trouble functioning. All its rules and guidelines remain in place. Although its ranks have been reduced to 12, its own rules require only 10 members for a quorum and eight votes to pass a motion. The five public members of the board denied Meany's charges that the board has been unfair to labor. They said 28 of the board's 54 formal votes had been unanimous. The union members had been in the majority of 36 votes, they said, and had voted in the majority on five of eight major wage cases decided by the full board.

Ozarks Commission Grants Approved

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Ozarks Regional Commission approved three Missouri grants Wednesday totaling more than $250,000. Announcement of the decision came from Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, who attended the four-state conference.

One will provide $46,835 — 30 per cent of the cost — of a vocational technical school at Monett. Another provides $9,582 — 39.9 per cent of the cost — of vocational equipment for Missouri Southern College at Joplin.

And the third grant will fund 80 per cent of the cost of utility improvements at a new industrial park at Rolla through a $195,250 grant.

A health needs study of the entire Ozark regional area in Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Kansas also was authorized by the commission.

Baseball Happiness For Beauty

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Happiness to a rabid baseball fan who happens to be a beautiful, brown-eyed brunette is getting a free box seat to all St. Louis Cardinals games and winning a beauty contest at the same time.

Jeannette Puetz, 24, accomplished both Wednesday in winning the 1972 Miss Redbird contest.

Jeannette, who is an administrative assistant to Police Chief Eugene Campbell, will be the official Cardinal hostess at Cardinal events during the year. She also will represent the club at other functions.

Miss Puetz apparently was more elated about becoming associated directly with her team and getting royal access to Busch Stadium than about winning the beauty and charm competition.

She said she has been a fan since she was in the first grade, "when my grandmother used to take me to ladies' day games."

Jeannette comes from a family of baseball fans, including the grandmother who "didn't know what the world was coming to" when the St. Louis Browns were sold.

Her sister and three brothers also are baseball fans — "especially the little one." She said her 9-year-old brother, David, is a devoted Cardinal fan. "He pouts all day when they lose."

Her favorites in the "old days" were Ken Boyer and Vinegar Bend Mizell and when Boyer struck out she was in a blue funk for 10 minutes.

She and friends, who used to walk to games and used the bus fare they saved to attend more games, were a vociferous lot in the bleachers.

"We used to nearly get killed by the grownups. They offered us sodas if we would just shut up," she recalled.

The Miss Redbird contest was the first try at beauty competition for the young lady with a college degree in urban planning.

"I think I'm going to quit here. This is the only beauty contest I think I ever wanted to win."

Guided Tour Given Sedalia Lions Club

Arthur Bethke, director of Sedalia's sewer and sanitation department, took members of the Lions Club on a guided tour of the west main sewage treatment plant Wednesday.

Guests at the club's regular noon meeting at Bothwell Hotel included Bill Hader, Jefferson City, with Edwin Walters Jr., and student guests were Don Tatum and Fred Knight, both of Smith-Cotton High School.

Don King, program chairman, introduced Bethke and John Kenney, president, presided at the meeting.

Antitrust Hearing Scheduled

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A court hearing was tentatively scheduled today on a request for a delay of legal action in an antitrust suit filed against one of the nation's largest milk co-operatives.

The Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI) filed the request in federal court here Wednesday, asking that a pre-trial conference be held either next Monday or Tuesday.

The Justice Department filed a civil suit last month against AMPI, which has about 40,000 dairy farmer members in the Midwest, accusing it of monopolizing the sale of milk in 14 states.

The San Antonio based group asked that the litigation be declared a "complex case" under federal guidelines covering "complex and multidistrict litigation."

It also asked the court to stay all pre-trial disclosure proceedings until the pre-trial conference is held and the court approves a schedule for further legal action.

AMPI, which has publicly denied the Justice Department's claims, cited several reasons why the court should declare the matter a "complex case," including the fact that the Justice Department has filed notice of plans to take 14 depositions this month from milk producers throughout the nation.

Documents requested in the deposition proceedings "will be not only voluminous but the taking of these depositions will range from one end of this country to the other," AMPI said.

It also questioned whether the court has jurisdiction in the case.

Cold Up There?

An unusual cause for a traffic jam, but not at Lion Country Safari where scenes like this are very common. Frequently, while a giraffe is looking down on the campers, a lion or two will climb on the hood for a look through the windshield at visitors to the West Miami Beach tourist attraction. (UPI)

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Nose Sprays Can Cause Congestion

Dear Dr. Lamb — Over a year ago my nose was stuffed up while I was pregnant so I started using a nasal spray. I have been using it ever since. I thought if I just stopped using the spray maybe I could get over it by myself, but I was just so miserable I had to go back to the spray again. I have tried everything, but nothing else works. I have never had a day of sinus or nose trouble in my life before. There is no sinus trouble history in my family except for one sister. What could cause my nose to act up like this and isn't there a cure or help for me? Please don't tell me to stop using nasal spray. I know too much isn't good for me but I just can't do without it.

Dear Reader — I am afraid you will have to do without it if you are going to get over your problem. You are describing a common complication of the use of some types of nasal spray.

The spray causes the lining inside the nose to shrink. The lining initially swells with blood and fluid which we call engorgement. This gives you the stuffy feeling. The sprays normally contain medicine that causes the blood vessels to constrict. The fluid is then absorbed out of the boggy tissues and of course your nose no longer feels stuffy. You feel more comfortable, but the hooker is that once the medicine in the spray has worn off the blood flow to the lining in the nose is actually increased and the engorgement is worse than before.

The patient then uses more nasal spray and he keeps getting relief and rebound, relief and rebound, and finally he develops a chemical sinusitis in which there is considerable damage to the usual normal functions of the linings in the nose.

This is why doctors aren't very enthusiastic about the persistent use of very many nasal sprays. I think that if you have had this trouble for over a year now you probably already have enough chemical irritation that it would be wise for you to see an ear, nose and throat specialist and see if he can do something about the lining in your nose that is now causing you this persistent trouble. It is not going to get better the way you are doing things now.

The small hairs in the nasal passages are nature's strainer and help to clean the air. They can be paralyzed by the spray. In general patients with nasal stuffiness or colds who do need some relief do better with medicines taken by mouth. These medicines have a general effect and are less likely to harm the nasal lining. There are exceptions but you would be wise not to take drops except under a doctor's advice.

Payments Exceed Estimate

WASHINGTON (AP) — It doesn't happen often, but the government is finding it's collecting more in taxes than it expected.

As a result, during the next two months at least, it will borrow less.

In February, the tax system produced $1 billion more than expected. So far this month, the Treasury is about $500 million richer than the experts first estimated.

One reason: taxpayers have been hit with overwithholding this year, and many have failed to adjust the number of exemptions for withholding purposes to reduce the amount withheld.

Asked how much more this may be bringing into government coffers; a Treasury debt expert said there is no way to tell. He said other factors also are involved.

The problem of overwithholding came up this year because Congress wanted to correct the chronic underwithholding with which many taxpayers were confronted in the past. Withholding tables were revised so the amount withheld from paychecks during the year would more closely resemble what taxpayers actually owe at the end of the year.

For many taxpayers, the new tables overcompensated, requiring the taxpayers to file new W-4 forms with their employers to adjust the number of their exemptions. But the Treasury statement indicated that thousands of taxpayers failed to do so, resulting in more money going to the government.

The boom is temporary, however, because the overwithheld taxpayers will be entitled to refunds when they file their returns next year.

The word terrier is from the Latin word meaning earth, signifying that type of dog's habit of digging into the earth to rout its animal quarry.
